Hoover Report Says Proposals Can Save Billions

Would Balance Gov't Budget, Commission Advises Congress

WASHINGTON (UP)—The Hoover Commission said today that adoption of its 362 economy proposals would save the government many billions of dollars — enough to balance the budget and reduce taxes.

It said these savings could be made without cutting the nation's military strength, "useful" public works, or "delivered" health, education and welfare programs. No exact estimate could be made of total savings, the commission said, because its various investigations were often partially overlapping. But it said 12 of its task forces estimated savings in their fields of inquiry totalling more than 8 billion dollars a year, and five other task forces recommended "great potential savings" but made no estimates.

"In any event," the commission said, "with all such discounts, there are enough possible savings left to enable the balancing of the budget and reduction of taxes."

Another 10 billion dollars could be recovered by the government, the commission said, by recovering funds tied up in various federal agencies.

The commission made the statements in its final report to Congress — what it called an account of its stewardship — on its two-year investigation of government waste and inefficiency.

It emphasized that its recommendations were not concerned alone with government finances, but that it strove to achieve these objectives:

"1. To preserve the full security of the nation in a disturbed world.
"2. To maintain the functioning of all necessary agencies which make for the common welfare.
"3. To stimulate the fundamental research upon which national security and progress are based.

"4. To improve the efficiency and eliminate waste in executive agencies.
"5. To eliminate or reduce government competition with private enterprise.

"6. And perhaps the most important of all, to strengthen the economic, social and governmental structure which has brought us, now for 166 years, constant blessings and progress."

The commission was made up of seven Republicans and five Democrats. In its report, it said the commission "never once divided upon party alignment."

The commission said it investigated the operations of 60 of the government's 64 executive agencies. These 60 agencies had 95 per cent of the federal budget, it said.

Teacher Tells of Terror Acts by Teen-Age Gang

CHICAGO (UP)—A suburban high school teacher, who described the last nine months as a "reign of terror," today defied the efforts of a teen-aged gang to drive him out of town.

Paul Burgess, 43-year-old dean of students and mathematics teacher at Oak Lawn Community High School, told the village board Wednesday that rock-throwing incidents and threatening phone calls had turned his wife into "a nervous wreck."

"Resign?" Burgess asked. "I should say not. No young hoodlums are going to drive me out of town."

He said that on six occasions since last October, members of the "Black Jackets" gang had thrown rocks through the windows of his home, damaging walls and furniture. One 20-pound rock was hurled with such force that it tore through a wall and knocked the tile off a bathroom wall.

Burgess said he has been forced to cover his windows with plywood to fend off the missiles.

In addition to the window-smashing incidents, Burgess said he has received "nuisance" telephone calls at all hours of the day and night. On at least one occasion, the caller said "You'd better watch out."

Burgess said his trouble apparently stemmed from disciplinary measures he took to enforce school rules.

"Apparently I am a victim because I have faithfully carried out my obligations," he said.

Volcano Erupts

CATANIA, Sicily (UP)—Europe's loftiest volcano, Mt. Etna, erupted today with a roar, showering volcanic ash over a wide area and striking fear into thousands of residents of the area.

Prof. Gustavo Cumini, director of the Volcanology Institute at the University of Catania went to the northeast crater to investigate.

Ex-Convict Chooses to Die by Firing Squad in Utah for Murder of Detective

POINT OF THE MOUNTAIN, Utah (UP)—Don Jesse Neal, hands shackled behind him, Farley was mysteriously shot to death as he drove the pair in the stolen car toward the police station.

Mrs. Tully, who became the state's chief witness, testified her lover pulled a hidden pistol from between the seat cushions and killed the officer. Neal claimed she shot the policeman with a gun she had in her purse. Mrs. Tully went free.

The American Civil Liberties Union, which entered the case, was still seeking to get Neal a new trial on the basis of "newly discovered" evidence. The Utah Pardons Board and Utah Supreme Court both refused clemency on the same ground within the last few days.

During the 3½ years of court appeals by Neal, he placed classified ads in a number of western newspapers, saying: "Young man in desperate situation. Proof of innocence but will die without financial aid."

He received a variety of answers, among them assistance from a comely 24-year-old former Wac, Constance Keen, of Sherman Oaks, Calif. Miss Keen made a dramatic visit to Neal in prison but soon dropped into the background again.

Neal wrote a book in prison, "Convicting the Innocent," but couldn't find a publisher.

If Neal is shot as the sun climbs over the Rocky Mountains Friday, he would be the 40th man to be executed in Utah. Thirty-three of the condemned chose the firing squad, five elected to hang. The way the others died is not recorded.

Firing squad members are unidentified volunteers, often sheriff's deputies. Four of the five rifle-men have live bullets in their 30-30 caliber weapons. The fifth contains a blank.

At sunrise the prisoner is turned over by the prison warden to the sheriff of the county in which the crime was committed. The formal execution order is read and a leather hood placed over the prisoner's head. He is then strapped into a solidly built oak chair, already bullet-micked from 27 previous executions. The firing squad aims through slits in a canvas drape at a white paper pinned over the target's heart and fires at a silent signal by the sheriff.

Military Funds Bill Goes To White House

Contains More Money Than Asked By Eisenhower

By United Press

Congress approved and sent to the White House today a bill providing $31,882,815,726 to run the military establishment for a year starting Friday.

The bill contains 46 million dollars which President Eisenhower did not ask and does not want to maintain Marine Corps strength at 215,000. The President, who plans to cut the corps to 193,000 by mid-1956, does not have to use the extra money.

The measure is a compromise of Senate and House versions. A conference committee agreed on it Wednesday and both houses gave it their final okay today.

It contains $7,329,956,000 for the Army, $9,118,179,556 for the Navy, $14,739,763,170 for the Air Force, $12,670,000 for the defense secretary and $682,350,000 for inter-service activities.

Other congressional news: Foreign aid: The House beat down a move to bar U. S. aid to any country which subjects American troops to foreign laws and courts as provided by so-called status of forces treaties with the United States. The move, defeated 129-111, was sponsored by Rep. Hamer H. Budge (R-Ia).

Dome: The House Appropriations Committee voted five million dollars to start work on a project to prop up the Capitol dome. Former President Truman used to say the dome was in danger of falling down. Its lip hangs over the structure beneath it.

Bases: The Senate Armed Services Committee approved a bill to authorize expenditure of $2,357,317,300 on military bases at home and abroad.

Conference: President Eisenhower invited Democratic and Republican congressional leaders to a conference July 12 to discuss the forthcoming Big Four "summit" meeting in Geneva.

Dixon-Yates: Sen. Estes Kefauver (D-Tenn.) summoned Budget Director Rowland R. Hughes to an unusual night meeting to testify on the Dixon-Yates power contract. Kefauver has accused the budget bureau of concealing important information about the inception of the contract.

Stand on Fifth Amendment: He was followed by six of the persons he had named. Five of them stood on the Fifth Amendment and refused to answer certain questions about their Communist connections, despite warnings of possible contempt action by the Senate against at least two of them.

The New York Newspaper Guild said none of the persons named by Burdett is connected with the organization's present administration "in any capacity whatsoever."

Grutzner was one of 12 persons named by Burdett as having been members of a Communist unit on the Brooklyn Daily Eagle in 1937.

The others were: Nat. Einhorn, later a New York Newspaper Guild official; Victor Weingarten; Violet Brown, who later married Weingarten; Charles Lewis; Hy Char-niak; Herbert Cohn; Melvin Barnett; David Gordon; Gladys Bentley; Larry Adler and Lyle Dowling.

He also was asked about several other active workers in the New York Newspaper Guild and identified some of them as having been Communists.

CBS said it has known since 1951 about Burdett's record but has kept him because it is convinced of his loyalty. CBS made public a letter from Eastland asking that it stand by Burdett.

New York Times Reporter Admits He Was Member of Communist Party 1937-40

WASHINGTON (UP)—Charles Grutzner, veteran reporter for the New York Times, testified today that he was a member of the Communist party from 1937 to 1940 while working for the Brooklyn Daily Eagle.

Grutzner told the Senate Internal Security subcommittee he was not a very active member and that his fellow Communists in the Daily Eagle unit complained because he did not attend meetings regularly.

"I finally just stayed away for good" in 1940, he said. Grutzner has been a Times reporter since 1941.

The Times reporter took the stand after Victor Weingarten, former reporter for the Eagle, refused to testify about whether he was a Communist prior to 1940 or to give information about his associates.

Weingarten, now a Pleasantville, N. Y., advertising man, said he had not been a Communist since the 1940 presidential election. But on most questions about his associates, including his wife, Violet, he invoked the Fifth Amendment against possible self-incrimination.

Says Infiltration Corrected: Both Grutzner and Weingarten were named as onetime members of the Communist unit of the Daily Eagle in testimony Wednesday by Winston Burdett, CBS news correspondent who said he, himself, was a member of the party from 1937 to 1942.

The subcommittee called the newsmen as it continued hearings on what Chairman James O. Eastland (D-Miss.) described as "the high pattern of infiltration" the Communists once had on New York newspapers and "the grip they had on American life."

Eastland told reporters he felt communist infiltration of newspapers "has been substantially corrected" in recent years.

CBS news correspondent Burdett mentioned more than 20 present or former newsmen—including several former leaders of the New York Newspaper Guild—Wednesday in telling at length about his activities as a member of the Communist party from 1937 to 1942.

Burdett testified that he engaged in espionage for the Communists in several foreign countries while abroad as a correspondent. But he said his break in 1942 was final.

He was followed by six of the persons he had named. Five of them stood on the Fifth Amendment and refused to answer certain questions about their Communist connections, despite warnings of possible contempt action by the Senate against at least two of them.

The New York Newspaper Guild said none of the persons named by Burdett is connected with the organization's present administration "in any capacity whatsoever."

Expects to Quit By Supertime This Evening

State Employees' Pay Raise Bill Goes to Stratton

SPRINGFIELD (UP)—The 68th General Assembly, with 225 bills left on its calendar, opened the final day of its session today, and expected to hold final adjournment by supertime.

The Senate, working until midnight Wednesday, acted on 224 bills, and passed two that would provide pay raises for state employees.

The Senate had 125 bills on its calendar as today's session began, after passing 201 and defeating or tabling 23. The House started the day with an even 100, having passed 132 bills and defeated 6 Wednesday.

The state employees pay raise bills will give state workers an average pay increase of 10 per cent starting Friday if Gov. William G. Stratton signs it.

The bill for this increase, ranging from zero to 25 per cent, was passed 45-0. The second bill, adding provisions for raises every six months in eight or nine stages for the 22 salary classes, also contained a 12½-million-dollar appropriation for paying the raises. It was passed 42-2, with 2 votes of "present."

Majority Leader Arthur J. Bidwill and Majority Whip George E. Drach, the two top administration leaders for the governor, voted present.

Both said they knew the need for the pay raise but it was not in the recommended state budget and they had to hold the fiscal line against unauthorized items.

Drach said the pay raises proposed would cost the state 29 million dollars in the next two years.

But Sen. Egbert B. Groen (R-Pekin), Senate sponsor of the bill for the 43 House sponsors of both parties, said, "These people have had no pay increases since 1951. How many of us are still working for the same pay as we were receiving then?"

Sen. Donald J. O'Brien (D-Chicago) reminded the legislators "we voted ourselves a pay increase here the other day, we'd better give these people one, they deserve it."

The Legislature passed a bill boosting legislators' salaries from $5,000 to $6,000 a year.

Many Bills Passed: Other bills passed by the Senate at its night session would:

Extend the appropriation to buy one million dollars worth of Salk polio vaccine for free shots for children under 19 to June 30, 1957.

Add corporal to the ranks of state police, providing opportunity for promotions and pay raises.

Designate Nov. 11 as Veterans Day rather than Armistice Day.

Give the Department of Conservation power for the regulation and licensing of boats on all Illinois waters.

Repeal the provision for state advice and assistance in long range road planning for cities, villages, towns, townships and districts, leaving the state help provision for counties.

Permit cities to hold a special election on a fire protection tax levy.

Appropriate $50,000 to the superintendent of public instruction for a two-year study of the state school aid program.

Appropriate $10,000 to the estate of the late Rep. Hazel A. McCas-kirin, Rock Island legislator who died before the session began. The $10,000 would have matched her two year salary. It will be used to pay her debts and settle her estate.

Limit the nights of harness racing at any track to 90 days. The sponsor said some tracks now race up to 132 nights.

Create a division of safety inspection and education in the Department of Labor, with an $8,000 a year superintendent to run an industrial safety program.

Permit cities to recover the cost of weed cutting from non-cutting property owners.

Hold school teachers to their contracts after the period 60 days before the start of school.

Permit the auditor of public accounts to charter credit union corporations.

Appropriate $40,000 to continue the School Problems Commission for two more years.

The Weather: ILLINOIS: Partly cloudy, warm and humid tonight and Friday. Thundershowers north and central Friday or Friday night. Low tonight 68-74, high Friday 90-95.

Boy Treated for Injury; Hurt in Auto-Train Crash

Car Driven by Mrs. Harold DeVille Hits Train at Wasson

A seven-year-old lad who lost the tip of his thumb and was treated at the office of Dr. John E. Choiser in Eldorado this morning, was back in Dr. Choiser's office in a matter of minutes, because of an auto-train crash he figured in.

The car, driven by Mrs. Harold DeVille, who lives west of Wasson, and containing her mother-in-law, Mrs. Lucy DeVille, and Mrs. Harold DeVille's seven-year-old son, Harry Gene, were returning from the doctor at Eldorado with the injured boy when the car figured in a collision with the southbound New York Central passenger train at Oliver's crossing at Wasson about 9:20 a. m.

Mrs. Harold DeVille was not hurt, her mother-in-law suffered head and chest injuries and was taken to Pearce hospital in Eldorado, and the boy suffered a horseshoe-shaped laceration on his forehead. He was released a second time following treatment.

The lad had mashed his thumb when an exhaust fan closed a door on it at his home.

The right side and the front of the DeVille car sustained extensive damage.

DU QUOIN FAIR STARS—The McGuire Sisters, vocal trio of the Arthur Godfrey radio and TV shows who will star in the Du Quoin State Fair's 1955 Stagerama, grandstand stage show, Aug. 29 through Sept. 4, will not only sing for the southern Illinois exposition's nightly audiences the songs they have popularized on records, radio and TV, but will also present their new variety act. The act includes Dottie (top) on the saxophone, Chris (lower left) at the piano, and Phyllis (lower right), spokesman for the trio, with a hot glockenspiel. They will also present a tap dance routine. 1955 Du Quoin State Fair dates are from Aug. 28 through Labor Day.

THE STORY: Unwittingly Private Detective Michael Shayne aids his frightened secretary Lucy Hamilton, hide a fugitive from police. She insists Jack Bristow, the fugitive, is not a murderer and Shayne investigates, learning that a girl has been strangled and that Shayne is deeply involved. Returning to Lucy's apartment, Shayne is in time for a visit of Police Chief Will Gentry and Reporter Tim Rourke, both friends of Shayne.

Sound was wrenched from Lucy's throat. She started forward, her face worked convulsively, but Shayne put in sharply: "Some friend of Lucy's? Is that it?" "I don't think so," Gentry's veiled eyes hadn't missed Lucy's involuntary start, but he disregarded it and answered Shayne matter-of-factly. "We don't know too much about the dead girl yet, but off-hand I wouldn't pick Trixie for anyone Lucy'd give her address to. Handwriting doesn't jibe, either, with samples we found in her room. What I am guessing is that the man who killed her had the address in his pocket and dropped it accidentally."

"That sounds like a reasonable deduction," said Shayne scornfully. "You don't suspect Lucy of being intimate with a murder victim, but with the murderer. Any particular reason for thinking that?" "Why, yes," said Gentry comfortably. "We know from a taxi driver that a young fellow flagged him half a block from the 18th Street address soon after we figure the girl was killed, and had him drive to this building. He acted nervous and funny in the cab. Gentry went on slowly, "and after he got out the driver noticed a blood smear where he'd been sitting."

Shayne sat back and nodded. "The man Sergeant Loftus was looking for. Did he find him?" "The trail was an hour old. He searched every apartment in the building," Gentry went on heavily, "except this one. Claims you objected."

"Did he tell you why I objected?" Shayne demanded hotly. "When your storm troopers learn some manners they'll get along better in police work."

"Loftus told me about it," grunted Gentry. "Don't blame you much, Mike, but things would look a lot better if you hadn't interfered. Too bad Loftus didn't know about this name and address when he was here."

"If he had," said Shayne, "I'd have invited him in to look for himself."

"It's going to look bad if the papers get hold of it," Shayne grinned and glanced aside at Rourke. "So you brought a reporter along with you?"

Rourke yawned and unwound his lean body from the couch, strolled casually toward the open bedroom door that sagged inward on loose hinges behind Gentry. Lucy started involuntarily and put her knuckles to her mouth, but Shayne's eyes followed the reporter with only casual interest.

Light footsteps came running up the stairs at that instant, and a trim young officer paused in the open outer doorway panting excitedly.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

DREW PEARSON Says:
Truman Once Gave Molotov Bawling-Out He Can't Forget; Democrats Launch Military Graft Hunt; Bankruptcies Increase Despite Prosperity.

WASHINGTON — Inside reason why V. M. Molotov at first wasn't going to hear Harry Truman speak in San Francisco was quite simple. Truman once gave Molo the bawling-out of his life. Arriving in Washington en route to San Francisco 10 years ago, Molo heard Missouri mule driver's language for 45 minutes. Chip Bohlen, now ambassador to Russia who served as interpreter, told Jimmie Byrnes that he had never heard a top of lateral get such a scolding. . . . Truman's story of the bawling-out will be told in his book. Retired brass hats at the Army-Navy club haven't relished the intrusion of Gary Cooper, who's playing the part of Gen. Billy Mitchell. "The Trial of Billy Mitchell." Part of the picture is being shot at the Army-Navy club—after midnight, in order not to interfere with retired brass hats. Even so, some don't like it. Remarks Col. Boh Guggenheim, retired ambassador to Portugal: "It's the only quiet place a man has to go. He can't stay home."

The rumor that the one Democratic governor of New England, Ed Muskie, got started when Fred Scrivener, Republican National committeeman from Maine, grumbled about Eisenhower visiting a Democrat; also when the trip to Augusta was canceled. Reason for the cancellation was too short runways for the Columbine to land, not because Ike didn't want to see Muskie. He saw him later at Skowhegan.

BOUNDARY CLAIMS UNSURE
The real truth of the Alaska plane-shooting incident is that we don't know whether our plane was over alleged Siberian territory when forced down. The Russians claim sovereignty 20 miles out to sea, the USA claims three miles only. It's possible the patrol plane might have been over the Russian area. Boundaries are difficult in this remote part of the world and in one part of the Bering Sea, Little Diomed Island and Big Diomed Island—one Russian, one American—are so close that Eskimos paddle back and forth with little worry about nationality.

The Russian claim of 20 miles sovereignty at sea is one reason the State Department opposes Texas and Louisiana claims of 10 miles sovereignty over submerged oil fields. The State Department argues that if the U. S. abandons the three-mile limit then we give Russia, Mexico and other nations a chance to cite Texas and Louisiana to justify their claims.

Military Graft-Hunt — Senate Majority Leader Lyndon Johnson has gone on a fishing expedition for military scandals. His Armed Services Preparedness subcommittee has written 27 letters to the Defense Department, demanding information. The tall Texan will time his hearings just before the 1956 political season. One scandal is the way our big bombers are bunched up like sitting ducks on a few bases. The Air Force has admitted that its giant B-36's and B-52's aren't properly dispersed, but the Budget Bureau won't approve the necessary funds. . . . Lyndon Johnson's investigators are also looking into an Air Force construction scandal in England. An alleged $15,000,000 has been wasted putting up buildings that can't be used, because they are too small to accommodate the necessary equipment or were built without required utilities. In some cases, large buildings were constructed at the taxpayers' expense for no specific purpose. . . . The United States has been quietly pouring equipment into Quemoy, hottest spot in the Far East. It looks as if the administration is preparing to call the Red bluff over the disputed coastal islands. At least President Eisenhower doesn't intend to give up the islands in advance, though he is willing to turn them over to the Reds as part of a Far Eastern settlement.

Hell's Canyon Banter — Senator Millikin of Colorado has been bluntly told by the Democrats he'll get no Frying Pan irrigation project, long coveted by drought-stricken Colorado, unless he votes for Hell's Canyon. . . . Senator Kuchel of California likewise has been warned the Trinity River project will get the ax unless he votes for Hell's Canyon. . . . Democrats, however, were extremely late in getting tough. They could have made a deal long ago for a GOP dam on the upper Colorado. Big mistake was that they trusted their own leader, able Sen. Clint Anderson of New Mexico, who meant well but had his own ax to grind. He wanted the upper Colorado project so badly that he put it through without first making a deal with the Republicans. Today the Democrats have no bargaining power left over Senator Watkins of Utah who has his Echo Park dam tucked in his breast pocket. But they still have with Millikin and Kuchel. . . . Unless Millikin can bring home the Frying Pan project his re-election chances won't be worth much in Colorado. (Of course, he may not want to run again.) . . . In contrast to the Senate Judiciary committee's makeshift probe of ex-Congressman John B. Wood for appointment to the Subversive Control Board, Senator Anderson sent investigators all the way to Iowa to dig out the background of Allen Whitfield, appointed to the Atomic Energy Commission. No investigators were sent to Georgia to probe the background of John Wood, despite clear evidence that his office received a check for $1,000 for introducing a private bill.

Record Bankruptcies — Despite prosperity, certain beneath-the-surface factors don't look good. One is the number of bankruptcies, now at the highest point in history. This is noted by a congressional report recommending more money to handle bankruptcy proceedings than ever before. . . . Genial Strom Thurmond of South Carolina has been wanted to get on the Senate Armed Services committee. But when he voted with Ike and against the Democrats to reduce the Marine Corps, Chairman Russell of Georgia cussed under his breath: "I'll never let him on the Armed Services committee." Strom is president of the Reserve Officers Association. . . . Congressman Overton Brooks of Louisiana is getting so much Army-Navy-Air Force pull that he

Toll Road Agency Out of Funds; to Cut Off Paid Help

CHICAGO (U) — A state agency charged with supervising the sale of almost 400 million dollars in bonds is broke.
The Illinois Toll Highway Commission reported today it is cutting off all paid help Friday because it has no more spending money.
Francis Old, executive director, said he and two assistant attorneys general assigned to the commission will stay on, but all other employees will be let go. Most will return to other state agencies.
The commission had a housekeeping appropriation of $400,000 for 1953-55 but has only $165 left. Its expenses eventually are to be paid from proceeds of bonds sold for road construction.
The bond sale had been scheduled for several months ago, but was delayed by challenges of the program. Meanwhile, the housekeeping fund has run out.

Bill to Ban Cashing Of Checks by Taverns Goes to Stratton

SPRINGFIELD (U) — A bill which will ban the cashing of paychecks by taverns was on its way to Gov. William G. Stratton's desk today, either for his veto or his signature into law.
The Senate, by a vote of 29-9 passed the bill Wednesday night.

Boost Federal Power Prices, Commission Asks

WASHINGTON (U) — The Hoover Commission urged today that the government jack up sharply the prices it charges for taxpayer-subsidized federal power.

- 1. New government steam generating plants be banned.
- 2. A special board be created to chart future federal water resources policy.
- 3. Private utilities be permitted to buy a "fair share" of public power.
- 4. The Tennessee Valley Authority and similar projects be required to issue public securities to finance any future expansion.

On the price issue, the commission declared that the government has been selling electricity for only about 60 per cent of what it's worth.

The commission said it would be desirable for the states to take over federal projects in the great power regions. But though it discussed how it might be done, the commission said it was making no recommendation on this score.

The report, sure to touch off a storm in Congress, said the entire water resources program needs overhauling. It said the present program evolved haphazardly during a century of changing needs and is riddled with "competition, duplication, and waste."

Atty. Gen. Herbert Brownell Jr. and Defense Mobilizer Arthur S. Flemming filed partial dissents. They voiced concern that the proposals would "impede the government in exercising its proper role" in water resources development.

Another member, James A. Farley, said it came "dangerously close to inviting an abdication by the federal government of its responsibilities" in the water resources field.

The "pieces of eight" of pirate lore were Spanish coins, each of which had the value of eight reals.

Adenauer Rejects Invitation to Visit Moscow

BOON, Germany — West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer today turned down Russia's invitation to visit Moscow at this time to discuss Soviet-German relations.

But he agreed, in a note handed to the Soviet Embassy in Paris, to discuss restoring normal relations between West Germany and Russia.

The chancellor's rejection of the invitation to visit Moscow came as a surprise. All previous indications had been that he would travel to the Soviet capital for a conference with heads of the Russian government.

They will travel with Campus Tours of the Olsen Travel Organization.

Taylor Sworn In As Chief of Staff

WASHINGTON — Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, World War II paratrooper commander and a Korean War leader, became the Army's new chief of staff today.

The 53-year-old general, whose World War II bravery has been singled out for praise by President Eisenhower, took the oath of office to succeed Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway.

Ridgway, 60, was retired Wednesday at a colorful ceremony featuring marching soldiers and an aerial parade at nearby Ft. Myer, Va.

Jenkins-Holderby Marriage is Solemnized at First Methodist Church

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Lake Holderby

A lovely June wedding took place Sunday, June 26, when Miss Nigel Jenkins, daughter of Rev. and Mrs. George Jenkins, 902 South McKinley, became the bride of Thomas Lake Holderby, son of Mr. and Mrs. John M. Holderby of Ridgway, in a double ring ceremony at the First Methodist church. Rev. Joe Harris of Ridgway officiated at the three o'clock service.

Standards of white gladioli, majestic daisies and chrysanthemums were arranged on the altar.

The bride, escorted to the altar and given in marriage by her father, chose a ballerina length gown of imported chantilly lace and nylon tulle over the traditional bridal satin. The fitted lace bodice was strapless and was worn with a matching chantilly lace jacket which closed with tiny covered buttons. The long sleeves tapered to a point over the hand and the voluminous skirt of lace and tulle, designed with bridal points, was worn over a skirt of satin. Her elbow length veil of pure silk illusion was caught to a Juliet lace cap embroidered with pearls and sequins. She carried on a white Bible, which was a gift of the bridegroom; two white orchids encircled with Stephanotis.

Miss Yvonne Henn, close friend of the bride, wore a madonna blue street length frock with a catching blue satin bandeau of white poms in her hair. She carried a bouquet of white poms.

Bridesmaid was Miss Sandra Butler who was attired in a bluish pink street length dress of polished cotton over crinoline. She, too, wore a head piece of white pom poms with pink satin tubing and carried a bouquet of white poms.

Rev. Buddy Peyton, pastor of Spring Grove Methodist church, was best man and Ron Staltz was groomsmen. Ushers were Jack Jenkins, George Jenkins Jr., Dave Heck and Tom Heck.

Mrs. Robert Norman, organist, played a medley of nuptial music and the traditional wedding marches, and accompanied John Schork who sang "Because," "O Perfect Love," and "The Lord's Prayer."

The bride's mother wore a powder blue linen sheath with white over lace and a matching blue linen bolero jacket. She also wore a corsage of white gardenias.

Mrs. Holderby chose a pale pink lace dress with a navy faille duster and white shantung accessories. Her flowers were pink delight roses.

A reception was held immediately following the wedding in Wesley Center. The bride's table was centered with a beautiful cake encircled with smilox interspersed with blue and pink daisies. The cake was topped with a miniature bride and groom.

Hostesses were Mrs. Gene Irvin, Mrs. Tom Carpenter, Mrs. Clifford

Rector, Mrs. George Jenkins Jr., and Mrs. Jack Jenkins. They were assisted by Mrs. Herbert Peak, Mrs. Harry Bozarth, Mrs. Icil Butler, Mrs. John Aldridge, Mrs. Muriel Holland and Mrs. Ethel Keneipp.

After the reception the couple left for a wedding trip to Florida. They will return July 9 and be at home in Ridgway.

The bride graduated in May from the Harrisburg Township high school where she participated in extra curricular activities and was quite popular with her classmates. The bridegroom graduated from the Ridgway high school and attended two years at McKendree college. He is now associated with his father in the Holderby Motor Co. in Ridgway.

Out of town guests at the wedding included:

Miss Rae Smith, Granite City, Mrs. Emmitt Holderby, Decatur, Mrs. Oliver Whitmore, Springfield, Miss Nina Holderby, Taylorville, Mrs. Estelle Boaz, St. Louis, Mo., Miss Lela Evans, St. Louis, Nancy Holderby, Decatur, Mr. and Mrs. Lowell Thomas, Marion, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Thomas, Creal Springs, Mrs. Rose Dixon and granddaughter, Debbie, Hammond, Ind., Mr. and Mrs. Charles Henn, Paducah, Ky.

Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Irvin entertained the wedding party with a rehearsal dinner at the 45 Cafe dining room on Saturday evening.

Dr. J. Dayton McCormick returned to his home in West Lafayette, Ind., this morning following a short visit with his mother, Mrs. Lowden McCormick. Dr. McCormick has been pastor of Central Presbyterian church in Lafayette, Ind., for over six years, and at a recent meeting of Synod of Indiana held at Hanover college he was elected moderator for the state of Indiana. He received an honorary doctor of divinity degree at Hanover college in 1952. Dr. McCormick is married and has two sons and one daughter.

Mrs. Denzil Pearson, 922 South Main, is a patient in the Lightner hospital where she underwent surgery Monday morning. Her condition is slowly improving. She is in room 212.

Mr. and Mrs. Orrie Tanner, who operate the Little Egypt cafe, will return Friday from Denver, Colo., where they have been visiting a son, Donald Tanner and family.

Mrs. Elsie Clannahan of Belleville is a house guest at the home of Mrs. Mary Musgrave.

Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Steinmarch are leaving for a vacation Friday and their upholstery shop will be closed until July 11.

Buena Vista Handicraft Club Enjoys China Painting

The Buena Vista Handicraft club met Wednesday at the home of Mrs. Mildred Smith. The members enjoyed an all day meeting with a delicious potluck dinner at noon.

The day was spent in China painting.

Present were Mrs. Nell Denny, Mrs. Barbara McConnell, Mrs. Julia Mae Dunn, Mrs. Ruth Pryor, Mrs. Lois Buchanan, Mrs. Ruth Pickford, Mrs. Marie Horn, Mrs. Madeline Horn, Mrs. Maxine Belt and the hostess, Mrs. Mildred Smith.

Mrs. Bea Stille and Mrs. Janette Stille of the Gaskins City Club were also present to assist the members in painting.

Loren Dallas of Carrier Mills is a patient at Lightner hospital where he underwent surgery Tuesday for a hand injury. Mr. Dallas split the thumb on his right hand and severed a tendon while working at the O'Keefe Lumber yard in Carrier Mills Monday evening.

Harry Tanner, Carrier Mills village clerk, is recovering from a badly sprained knee, suffered several days ago when he jumped from a bridge into a creek bed while in the country on a fox chase.

Otto Cox returned Saturday to Excelsior Springs, Mo., for further medical treatment at Excelsior Institute Inc., 105 East Broadway. He was taken there by his two sons-in-law, Tommy McCormack and Cecil Gates.

Girl Learns of Death of Lover By Wedding Ring

TORONTO, Ohio — A slim Panamanian girl lay gripped and near collapse today from the shock of learning from a never used wedding ring that her Marine sweetheart was dead.

Judy Ann Essio, 20, identified her lover Wednesday from a ring engraved J. A. E., May 21, 1955, found on the charred body of Pfc. Walter E. Brown Jr. May 21 was to have been their "new" wedding date. Their previous marriage was annulled.

The girl, a daughter of a Panama Canal Zone hotel owner, collapsed when police showed her an enlarged picture of the ring. It matched a ring given to her by Brown and engraved W. E. B., May 21, 1955. Brown's body had remained unidentified for a week before Judy assured authorities it was her sweetheart.

Judy was taken by Brown's parents to their home near here to recover from the shock and to await the birth of her dead lover's child.

The couple was married in Panama last December when Brown was stationed with the Marine Corps in the Canal Zone. But Judy's father had the marriage annulled because of his objection to their difference in religion.

Later the couple received Judy's father's consent to be married and they set May 21 as the wedding date. It was then they exchanged the rings.

But the day the wedding was to have taken place Brown was transferred back to the United States.

He was reported missing June 20 and a few days later his car was found at Steubenville, Ohio. He was tentatively identified later in connection with an automobile accident in which one victim was burned beyond recognition and another suffered from amnesia.

Judy said the burned body was Brown's. The amnesia victim was identified as S. E. Truesdale, a friend of Brown.

Urge Increased Benefits for Armed Service Dependents

WASHINGTON — A special House committee has recommended sweeping new legislation which it said would raise "substantially" government benefits for most survivors of servicemen dying in or as a result of military service.

The proposal would junk, modify or tie together an existing maze of laws under which surviving military dependents sometimes must file five or more separate applications with an assortment of federal agencies. Thousands now never get all the benefits to which they are entitled.

The proposed new law, approved unanimously by the committee after months of hearings, would:

1. Bring all servicemen under regular social security coverage, on the same contributory basis as civilians. They now are covered on a temporary, limited basis, with a wage credit of only $160 per month regardless of pay.

2. Modify the existing "death gratuity" under which survivors now get a flat payment equal to six months' base pay of the dead serviceman. These payments now run from $468 to $7,556. The committee proposed a floor of $800 and a ceiling of $3,000.

3. Terminate the free $10,000 "indemnity" now granted each man on entry into service; instead, Veterans Administration compensation payments for widows would be substantially raised, and social security coverage would be provided for dependent children.

Final Approval Given Army Bill

SPRINGFIELD — The bill to provide $244,000 and permit the state to take title to land for the building of new National Guard armories at West Frankfort, Litchfield, Effingham and Freeport today was on its way to Gov. William G. Stratton's desk.

Final legislative action was taken when the House passed the bill and the Senate concurred in the House amendment late Wednesday.

Mrs. Charley Gaskins Receives Broken Arm In Fall at Church

Mrs. Charley Gaskins, 30 West Raymond, is a patient at the Harrisburg hospital suffering from a broken arm received yesterday around noon in a fall at the First Methodist church.

She was showing her daughter, Mrs. Frank Hromada, over the new church when she slipped on one of the steps on the front of the sanctuary. The break was between the elbow and shoulder.

Mrs. Hromada, who lives in El Reno, Okla., has been visiting in Harrisburg for the past three weeks and plans to return with her husband and two children this week end.

In loving memory of our dear wife and mother, Annie Todd, who left us a year ago:
Although you are away Mom,
You are with us always.
Sadly missed by her husband Damon Todd and children. 3-1

In Memoriam
In loving memory of my husband, Arza Burton, who passed away two years ago today, June 30. The heavenly gates were opened.
Our Father's voice said,
"Come."
And with farewells unspoken
He gently entered his eternal home.
Deeply missed by his wife, Lotie, and Family. 3-1

Peron Cable to Pope May End Controversy

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (Delayed by censorship) — Authoritative diplomatic sources said today that President Juan D. Peron, recently excommunicated by the Vatican for actions against the church, has cabled a report on church-state relations to Pope Pius XI.

The move apparently was the latest in a series of steps designed to patch up relations between the Roman Catholic Church and the Argentine government.

Peron's cable was sent to the Vatican on the occasion of the feast of St. Peter and St. Paul, traditionally known as "Pontiff's Day" in honor of the first pope of the church.

No details of the communication have been made available. It was announced today (June 30), that Santiago Luis Cardinal Copello has resumed control of the Catholic hierarchy in Argentina.

This move, coupled with Peron's report to the Vatican, was believed the outgrowth of a government shakeup which could mean an early end to the bitter church-state controversy.

The 75-year-old archbishop of Buenos Aires and primate of Argentina had been unable to carry on his full duties recently because of illness. The Right Rev. Manuel Tato, who as auxiliary bishop of Buenos Aires was acting head of the church, was deported by the government June 15.

It was understood that President Juan D. Peron at Wednesday's cabinet meeting accepted the resignations of 4 of his 16 ministers. The entire cabinet handed in resignations following the abortive June 16 Navy-led revolt.

The official state radio said that Minister of Interior Angel Borlenghi's resignation was "irrevocable," leaving Peron no alternative but to accept it.

Borlenghi generally was regarded

C47 with Crew Of Four Crashes On Island Peak

ANCHORAGE, Alaska — A Navy pilot who flew over the wreckage of an Air Force C47 transport on Sitkinak Island said today there was no sign of life at the crash scene.

Four men, all from the 5039th Air Transport Group, Elmendorf Air Force Base, were aboard the plane when it crashed Wednesday on the highest peak of the island, about 90 miles southwest of Kodiak.

The plane left Elmendorf AFB here Wednesday morning with a crew of three and flew to Kodiak where a fourth crewman, a radar operator, was taken aboard.

It left Kodiak to air drop supplies to a preliminary survey party on the island in connection with plans for construction of a recently authorized Air Force base there.

The weather bureau said visibility over the island at the time the plane was believed to have crashed was excellent and flying conditions were good.

An SA16 Albatross left Elmendorf Wednesday night for the wreckage scene. Paramedics of the 71st Air Rescue Squadron were to jump to the scene if the Albatross was unable to land at a lagoon near the foot of Sitkinak Dome, the 1,640-foot peak on which the plane crashed.

Names of the crewmen were withheld pending notification of next of kin.

Senate Passes School, Welfare And Road Bills

SPRINGFIELD — The Illinois Senate Wednesday passed the $200,000 appropriation for the new $200 per pupil per year school formula.

The Senate also passed appropriation bills for $338,953,000 for the Division of Highways for road-building and maintenance in the next two years, and $120,000,000 for the Department of Welfare.

The welfare budget is some 9 million dollars higher than the comparable appropriation for 1953-1955. Other appropriations will bring this department to about 136 million dollars. The department operates the state's mental hospitals and several other institutions.

The Senate passed three bills creating the psychiatric training and research authority which will use 16 million dollars in the next two years from the mental health fund, paid by patients' families, for a training, care and research program in mental illnesses. This appropriation is tied in with the Department of Public Welfare budget.

The highway appropriation is 83 million dollars higher than in 1953-1955.

The school aid appropriation is the state's share of a formula that will raise the minimum school operating standard from $173 per pupil per year to $200 per pupil per year. The state and local revenues together guarantee the minimum. Under the formula, grade and high school districts, and community units, have a higher qualifying tax rate.

The Senate also passed and sent to the governor a bill for a $4,300,000 appropriation for $100 per year student aid to publicly supported junior colleges.

Approve Bill to Build Schools For Districts

SPRINGFIELD — The Illinois Senate Wednesday put final legislative approval on a bill setting up a four-million-dollar fund to build schools for districts which have exhausted their bonding power and are overcrowded with pupils.

Sen. David Davis (R-Bloomington), a member of the School Problems Commission, said the commission wanted the plan for the next two years to see "if this is the answer" to school building problems in heavily populated, debt-ridden school districts.

schools for districts which have exhausted their bonding power and are overcrowded with pupils.

Sen. David Davis (R-Bloomington), a member of the School Problems Commission, said the commission wanted the plan for the next two years to see "if this is the answer" to school building problems in heavily populated, debt-ridden school districts.

He said the state would build the new schools from the fund, then rent them to the districts with exhausted bonding power, which would have to levy a tax and pay rents to pay off the debts. The school districts would own the buildings when they were paid for.

Pfc. Charles W. Hicks, son of Mr. and Mrs. Marion Hicks of 216 East National street, was one of several hundred paratroopers from the 188th Airborne Second Battalion Combat team from Fort Campbell, Ky., to participate in Exercise "Barracuda I," the joint Army Force maneuver conducted in the Republic of Panama on May 3 by the United States Caribbean Command. The purpose of the exercise was to test the effectiveness in which the Panama Canal Zone area could be reinforced and defended by U. S. based troops. The exercise also demonstrated the harmony in the relations among the joint forces in conducting such an exercise. Pfc. Hicks is presently receiving the jungle training course at Camp Pina, C. Z., and is expected to return to Fort Campbell at the completion of the instruction.

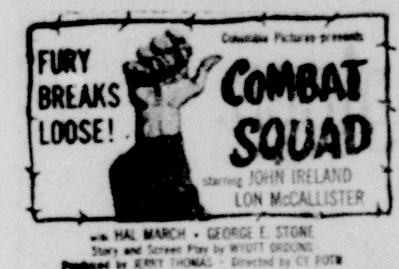

Pfc. Shan R. Hise, son of Shan W. Hise, Ridgway, is a member of the 24th Infantry Division in Korea. Hise, a graduate of Ridgway Community high school, is a finance specialist in the division's Headquarters. He entered the Army in February 1954, completed basic training at Camp Chaffee, Ark. and arrived in the Far East last April.

Briefs from Around World

LODI, Italy (UP)—Authorities reported today that two farm workers have been charged with cutting the tails off 39 cows because they got mad at their boss.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (UP)—State Rep. Ben Rhodes admitted to his colleagues that he was hurt when they defeated a bill he sponsored, 115-9.

"You didn't have to pass it," he said, "but you didn't have to be so ornery."

DETROIT (UP)—William P. Utter, 47, told the judge he was a red light because he was trying to escape a fire in the front seat of his car started by a fallen cigarette.

The judge sentenced him to 10 days in jail or $150 fine.

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (UP)—Mrs. Jeanne K. Davis, confessed Wednesday that she wrote $5,000 in worthless checks using her ex-husband's name, in hopes he would learn of it and come back to Milwaukee.

HOLLYWOOD (UP)—Actress Barbara Stanwyck was hospitalized in nearby Santa Monica today with a painful back injury resulting from a fall down a flight of stairs at her home.

Her physician, Dr. George W. Ainsley Jr., said preliminary x-rays taken after the accident Wednesday indicated Mrs. Stanwyck did not have a spine fracture, as was first feared. A complete examination was to be made today.

CAMP KILMER, N. J. (UP)—Taps will sound for Camp Kilmer tonight.

The post named for poet Joyce Kilmer who was killed in action during World War I will pass to standard status at midnight despite the efforts of local residents to keep it open.

Kilmer was the temporary home for more than 5 million men and women who passed through here to and from overseas assignment after it was opened in 1941.

OXNARD, Calif. (UP)—Film starlet Young rested comfortably in St. John's Hospital today following surgery for abdominal adhesions which have kept her in bed since mid-April.

Attendees said Wednesday's two-hour operation was a success and the actress was expected to recover rapidly.

NEW YORK (UP)—Tommy Manville made arrangements today to sell his ninth wife $260,000 of his freedom under an agreement negotiated in Supreme Court here.

The much married Manville's latest separation agreement was with blonde Anita Roddy-Eden. She will receive $140,000 cash and $12,000 a year for 10 years.

Both Manville and Anita beamed approval after Justice Irving Saypol worked out the agreement Wednesday.

Rescue Planes Fail to Locate Marine Airmen

TOSYO (UP)—Rescue planes returned to Johnson Air Force Base tonight after a fruitless search, often dangerously close to the ocean's surface, for three missing U. S. Marine airmen who may have heard the engines of the planes from rubber life rafts.

Pilots of the 36th Search and Rescue Squadron told the United Press that they had to take their engine-driven planes down to 500 feet above the churning heavy seas to duck under low clouds. Some of the pilots, who had remained as long as seven and a half hours in the air, said the visibility was "fair."

The rescue pilots said they would be ready to take off again at dawn to push the hunt. The search was intensified because of distress signals heard off and on since Monday, apparently being sent from rubber life rafts.

U. S. Promises Arms to Germany

BONN, Germany (UP)—The United States promised today to give West Germany arms, equipment and other aid in raising its new 500,000-man armed forces.

A mutual defense assistance agreement between the two nations was signed at the Foreign Office here by West German Foreign Minister Heinrich von Brentano and U. S. Ambassador James B. Conant.

The agreement must be ratified by the West German parliament before going into force.

Using strong alkaline soaps or extremely hot water in washing china will fade out gold band and gilt decorations.

Preacher Roe Admits 'Spitball' Was Money Pitch to Keep Him in Majors

NEW YORK (UP)—Preacher Roe said today that during his brilliant pitching career with the Brooklyn Dodgers from 1948 to 1954 the illegal spitball was the "money pitch" which kept him in the major leagues.

Roe, in the current edition of Sports Illustrated magazine, said he decided to use the spitball in 1947 after the Dodgers acquired him from the Pittsburgh Pirates. Roe, a one-time fireballer in the St. Louis Cardinals' chain, had a 4-15 record with the Pirates that year.

"Why shouldn't I have decided to use the spitball?" Roe asked rhetorically in the article. "I was asked through when I decided to get me the pitch. 'If I get caught,' I told myself, 'they'll kick me out of baseball. If I don't, I'm through anyway, so how can I lose?'"

Roe, who retired after the 1954 campaign in which he had a 3-4 mark, said in the magazine story he had no regrets and stated, "I wasn't the only one that did it—there still are some guys wetting 'em up right now. . . . I know one or two of 'em but it's not up to me to tell their names."

Roe compiled a 12-8 record in 1948, his first year with the Dodgers, and then reeled off successive season marks as follows: 15-6 in 1949, 19-11 in 1950, 22-3 in 1951, 11-2 in 1952 and 11-3 in 1953. His combined record of 44-8 for the 1951-52-53 seasons is one of the most remarkable percentages in the history of baseball.

Roe also said in the story that shortstop Peeewe Reese and third baseman Billy Cox of the Dodgers often collaborated with him in getting the saliva onto the ball.

The spitball was declared illegal in 1920, but the lively ball made its appearance in the game, but Commissioner Ford Frick recently said he was in favor of making it legal again. Among the famous spitball pitchers were Urban Shocker, Burleigh Grimes, Red Faber and Stan Coveleskie.

Woman Admits Hacking Sleeping Mate to Death

FORT WAYNE, Ind. (UP)—A 61-year-old woman, disillusioned by 16 years of unhappy marriage, has confessed she hacked her sleeping husband to death with an ax and hid his body on a river bank.

Mrs. Lucy L. Baysinger broke down late Wednesday as police investigated the mysterious disappearance of her husband, Clarence, 60, in the area around their secluded home on the banks of the St. Joseph river, eight miles northeast of here.

Baysinger, an all-night watchman for a Fort Wayne steel company, had been missing from his job since June 16. Mrs. Baysinger had told police he had gone fishing.

In her confession, the woman said she tossed a coat over her husband's head as he slept the morning of June 16 and "struck him several times" with an ax. Baysinger was wearing shorts and undershirt.

After living with the body for 24 hours, she said, she dressed it, rolled it down the river bank in front of their house, and tied it to a rowboat. Police quoted her as saying she towed the body about 800 feet downstream and hid it on the bank.

Mrs. Baysinger sobbed her confession during police questioning and led officers to her husband's body. She told of arguments in which she pleaded to move from the lonely river cottage.

Stratton Signs 25 Measures

SPRINGFIELD (UP)—Gov. William G. Stratton Wednesday signed 25 bills into law, including bills raising the salaries of Supreme Court and circuit level judges and giving the Supreme Court judges added help.

Supreme Court judges elected in the future will get $24,000 a year instead of the present $20,000, and circuit and superior court judges will get $15,000 instead of $12,500 paid to present judges.

Other bills authorize an $800 a month senior and $600 a month junior law secretary for each Supreme Court judge. The total appropriation for these employees is $235,200.

Other bills signed will: Increase the maximum levy for schools from 1.10 per cent to 1.15 per cent for the year 1956; and to 1.20 per cent in 1957 and thereafter.

Appropriate $16,110 to the Teachers College Board for Illinois State Normal University's centennial celebration.

Increase certain fees collected by clerks of circuit and probate courts.

Provide for retirement of state employees with 20 years service at the age of 50 in instances where they have been continuously disabled.

Authorize mutual aid contracts between cities and fire protection districts.

Create a 15-member legislative-public commission for care of alcoholics, with $20,000 for study of treatment facilities needed.

Extend the civil defense act to Aug. 1, 1957.

Create a commission with $15,000 for a study of the problems of the aged and the aging.

Create a commission with $10,000 for study of tax foreclosures.

Defeat Bill to Force Consolidation Of Road Districts

SPRINGFIELD (UP)—The Illinois House has defeated a bill to force consolidation of small township road districts by cutting off state motor fuel tax allocations.

The bill was backed by the Illinois Agricultural Assn. It got only 23 votes to 57 against it Wednesday.

Townships maintaining less than 20 miles of roads would have had until June 30, 1958 to consolidate with other townships for a joint road district with more than 20 miles of roads or lose their allocations.

The allocations would be turned over to the State Highway Division for state roadbuilding.

Among bills passed were measures to:

Require 25 per cent of voters in a municipality to petition for a local option referendum before one is called.

Dodger Injuries IN THE Sport Parade

By OSCAR FRALEY
United Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (UP)—The standings would seem to indicate that the rest of the National league is crippled but the truth today is that the battered Brooklyn Dodgers are rolling up an injury list which may match that of the hospital-happy 1949 New York Yankees.

The Yankees, that year, had a total of 74 injuries which put practically every member of the club out of action time to time. The Dodgers this year already have had 25 injuries which caused 18 players to be inactive.

Brooklyn hopes it is significant, because despite the aches and bandages the Yankees that year won the pennant and the World Series.

Four Players on Shelf
At the moment, four of the Brooks are nursing various ailments which will keep them on the shelf. They are catcher Roy Campanella and pitchers Russ Meyer, Billy Loes and Johnny Podres.

The season's champion in the casualty department, however, has been Jackie Robinson. He has been racked up and removed from the lineup no less than five times and the damages include a jammed left knee, a twisted right ankle, a fractured right arm, a pulled left hand and spiked right hand acquired simultaneously; a pulled side muscle and re-injury of the knee.

Meyer and Sandy Koufax have suffered damages twice, to be the chief sufferers among nine deated pitchers. Among the nine others injured, after Robinson the most clouded of the Dodger competitors has been Carl Furillo, who has been decked twice.

And More Injuries
To continue: Robinson, pulled side muscle; Billy Loes, sore arm; Robinson, left knee again; Podres, sore shoulder; Jim Hughes, stiff shoulder; Campanella, bruised knee; Duke Snider, twisted knee ligament; Don Zimmer, infected jaw; Furillo, strained calf muscle; Carl Erskine, bad elbow and stiff back, and Meyer, fractured collar bone.

The Dodgers still are short of the Yankees, however, by 16 world championships and 49 injuries.

There were two, in 1949, that weren't even counted in the Yankees' total of 74. When Tommy Henrich's hit won the pennant, Coach Bill Dickey leaped up in the dugout and knocked himself cold on the concrete roof. He nursed a sore head through the victorious series.

Nor did they count it when trainer Gus Mauch, hailed on the street by several players in a taxi, forgot to look where he was walking. He crashed into a parking meter and broke three ribs.

You might almost say that Harold (Duck) Wendler, the Dodger trainer, is remiss in not getting into the injury act.

The only time he's been hurt this season is playing bridge with Coach Jake Pittler against the all-star team of Manager Walt Alston and Coach Billy Herman.

Stan Musial Gets His 2,500th Hit; Nears Homer Mark

ST. LOUIS (UP)—Stan (The Man) Musial, who already has passed two major milestones in his career this season, had another within his immediate range today—100th place in the all-time major league home run standings.

The Cardinal slugger came through Wednesday night with his 2,500th major league hit, a home run which was his second hit of the game in a 9-5 victory over Cincinnati. He became the 28th player in the modern era of baseball to pass that total.

Last June 12 against the Giants, Musial hit his 10th home run to give him a total of 302 for his career, putting him into a tie with Rogers Hornsby in the lifetime rankings.

Manly Stanley, who now has 15 homers for the season and 307 for his career, will pass Al Simmons, the No. 10 man in the all-time home run derby, with his next route out.

Looking At Sports

By BILL MELTON

By BILL MELTON

How many of you baseball fans have said "Boy, wish I was Commissioner of Baseball. There are lots of changes I would make in the old game." Maybe you haven't, but I have.

Now I have an opportunity to tell Commissioner Frick of the changes I would make and to list the things I think wrong, and so help me, I can't think of many things connected with the game I think are seriously wrong and certainly am at something of a loss to offer suggestions on how to improve the game.

A form letter has arrived at The Register sports desk from a New York firm—Stephen Fitzgerald and Company—stating the firm has been selected by Commissioner Ford Frick to conduct a survey of baseball. This letter is being sent throughout the nation, hoping to get a cross-country view of what newspaper people think about the game of baseball as it is played and administered today.

The letter, accompanying a questionnaire, says in part, "This questionnaire, which is part of the study, is being sent to sports editors and baseball writers throughout the U. S. We would appreciate it if you would take a few minutes to answer the questions, express your opinions and then return the form."

The questionnaire is in twelve sections. One section is devoted to ways to improve the game and build attendance, with the following suggestions—More double headers, shorter games, better seating conditions, better parking facilities, lower prices by concessionaires, easier way of getting tickets, more TV coverage, less TV coverage, different starting times, etc.

It is my opinion that most every one would be happier with shorter games. Don't know just how a game could be speeded up, as so much of the stalling tactics are now considered part of the "color," but sometimes the color gets kinda faded.

Just why a fan should be required to sit while the catcher and pitcher visit, then sit some more while the shortstop comes over and asks the pitcher what the catcher said, and then have the catcher come out to ask the pitcher if the shortstop wanted to know what they had been talking about, is beyond me.

Then when the visit is broken up, the pitcher pulls at his cap, hitches up his pants, reaches for the resin bag, shakes off a couple of signs from the catcher. Then the batter calls for time; steps out of the batter's box and knocks the dirt out of his spikes. By that time the catcher has forgotten what he and the pitcher talked about so he trots out to the mound again. Just when this stops I don't recall, but some way or other the pitcher finally throws the ball.

Maybe the above is a little in the extreme, but we all know there is too much "actionless" time at a ball game.

But to tell the truth, there is really only one sincere gripe I have with regard to my watching big league baseball—I don't get to see as many games as I would like to watch each season.

Somehow or other I get a kick out of the cap pulling, pants hitching and etc. I know for certain that sooner or later the pitcher will throw the ball. He always has.

Guess I am looking at the game through rose-colored glasses this year and wouldn't recognize a wrong if it was staring me in the eye. Am a Cub fan you know and here it is almost July 4 and the Cubs are 'way up there in second place. The best medicine for any ball fan is a winning team. There, Commissioner Frick, is the answer to increased interest and attendance—every team a winner!

Heat Covers Most of Nation

By United Press

Muggy heat covered much of the nation's East today, but temperatures were dropping as much as 32 degrees in the West.

Temperatures climbed into the 80s and 90s practically everywhere east of the Continental Divide late Wednesday. Cool air had reached the western Dakotas by early today, but most of the nation could hope for little relief.

At Detroit, the city's water supply was pushed to the limits in meeting what may have been a record water demand in the Motor City Wednesday. Temperatures were expected to go still higher in Detroit today and the Weather Bureau said the humidity would get worse.

Other highs late Wednesday included 90 at Rapid City, S. D., 104 at Presidio, Tex., 89 at Chicago and an even 90 at New York City. In the West, cool Pacific air tumbled Tuesday 32 degrees from 87 to 55 at Pocatello, Idaho, and 24 degrees from 73 to 49 at Salt Lake City, Utah. To add to the contrast, a thunderstorm accompanied by rain and snow hit Livingston, Mont.

A few tornado funnels were sighted along the eastern slopes of the Rockies and another twister was spotted at about midnight over Martin, S. D. But apparently none of them touched the ground.

Fight Results

By United Press

BOSTON: Wallace (Bud) Smith, 134, Cincinnati, Ohio, outpointed Jimmy Carter, 134-1-4, New York (15)—won world lightweight championship.

By David Nelson

The Auto Trimmers trimmed Nick's Cafe, 13-3; the Cubs crushed Dairy Brand, 21-10; Athletic House defeated Ronnie's, 12-9, and the DX Chiefs scalped the Coca Colas, 13-5, in Kiwanis baseball games played Wednesday.

The Auto Trimmers handed Nick's their first defeat of the season, as they swept up the game in the first inning with four runs.

The winners then scored one in the third, seven in the fourth and one in the fifth to complete their 13-run total. Nick's scored two in the second and one in the third for their three tallies. Beal, the winning pitcher, gave up seven hits, all in the second and third innings. Shelton led the winners at bat with three for three. Belz, Cline and White had two safeties and Cushman, Gibbons and McDonald had one hit each to round out the Auto Trimmers' attack. Jahn, with two singles, led Nick's at bat, and Kihlmire, Henshaw, Ramsey, Turner and Salus had one hit apiece for the losers. Henshaw was the losing pitcher.

The Cubs clobbered the Dairy Brand pitchers for 19 hits and 21 runs, while Dairy Brand scored 10 times on five safe blows. C. Reed had four hits in five tries for the Cubs, followed by Gibbons, Winters, Banks, Warmelink and Rose with three hits each. The winners scored three runs in the first, five in the second, three in the third, and seven in the fourth. Anglin and Darrar had two safeties each, and Morgan had one hit for the losers. Dairy Brand scored six in the first, one in the second and fourth, and two in the fifth. Gibbons was the winning pitcher and Fleming was the loser.

Ronnie's rallied with five runs in the sixth inning, but lacked three for a tie with the Athletic House. The winners scored two in the first, eight in the fourth and one in the fifth and sixth for their 12 runs. Speaks had three hits, Mitchell and Winters two safeties each, and J. W. Witherly, Shewmake, Darden and Gibbons had one hit apiece for Athletic House. Ronnie's scored one in the second, three in the third, and five in the fifth. Whiteside and Alexander had two singles each and Spurlock, McNeal, Heffner and Owen one hit each for the losers. Mitchell had a home run for the Athletic House and Spurlock and Heffner had homers for Ronnie's. D. Weatherly was the winner and Molinaro was the loser.

DX took an early lead in the first and led all the way over the Coca Colas. DX scored 13 runs on nine hits while the Coca Colas scored five times on five safe tries. The winners scored four in the first, one in the second, six in the third and one in the fourth and sixth. The losers scored two in the first, and second, and one in the fourth. Mitchell and Holden led DX at bat with two hits each and King, Reid, Calne, Heffner and Thompson had one safety each. Biggs had a double and triple and Stone, Yates, and Spurlock had a single each for the Coca Colas. Reid was the winner and Spurlock the loser.

Friday's Schedule
Taylor Field: 3 p. m. Pankey's vs. Dairy Brand; 5 p. m. Sahara vs. Tigers.

Town Park: 3 p. m. VFW vs. Wildcats; 5 p. m. Carrier Mills vs. Ronnie's.

William Bissell, a physician, was an early settler at James' Mill, later called Monroe City in Monroe county. Becoming interested in the history of the area, he was admitted to practice and became prominent attorney. He later entered politics and became the first Republican governor of Illinois. (SIU).

Say hey! Shine up that halo. Dust off the Superman cloak. Get that door ajar in the Hall of Fame and put those Davy Crockett stories back with the comics. Willie Mays is on a rampage again.

The say hey kid, baseball's All-American boy of 1954, broke loose Wednesday night in a way to give Giant fans a forlorn hope that they still may have a chance in the pennant chase. He hit two homers, including the first grand slam job of his career, and drove in all six runs in a 6-1 victory over the Dodgers in Brooklyn.

The makers of Super-Refined No-Nox, the clean-burning gasoline, now bring you a new super-refined motor oil...

New Gulfpride H.D. Select

Available in 3 grades—SAE 10W, SAE 20/20W, SAE 30. Lets you follow your car manufacturer's recommendation for each season.

...the only motor oil in the world
super-refined by the Alchlor Process for modern high-compression engines.

A completely new motor oil that controls carbon—and stands up because it has “natural” viscosity. Contains no artificial thickeners that break down in service.

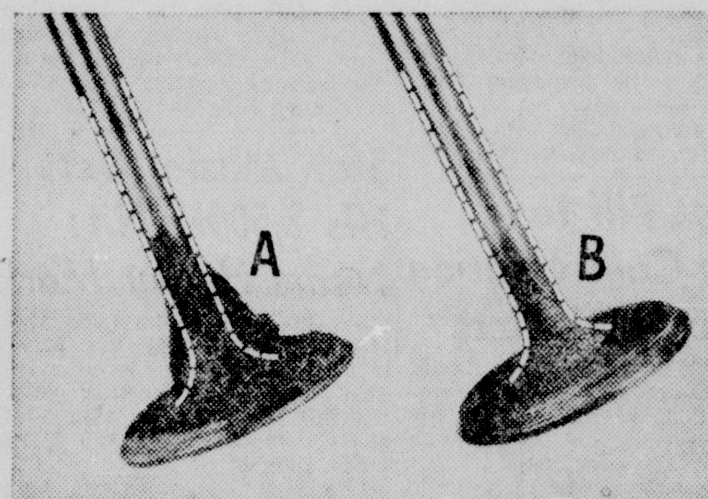

New Gulfpride H. D. Select—made possible by Gulf's exclusive Alchlor Process—is available in three grades . . . to give today's high-compression engines the finest protection, the lowest oil consumption in every season.

- Controls carbon—cause of knock, pre-ignition, valve failure and loss of power in high-compression engines.
- Combats corrosive acids, rust and deposits that build up on engine parts. Keeps hydraulic valve lifters quiet and free-acting.
- Assures lower oil consumption than the multi-viscosity “all-season” motor oils, because it has natural viscosity and contains no artificial thickeners that break down in your engine.
- Provides the toughest protective film ever developed in a motor oil . . . assures better engine protection for all cars under all driving conditions.

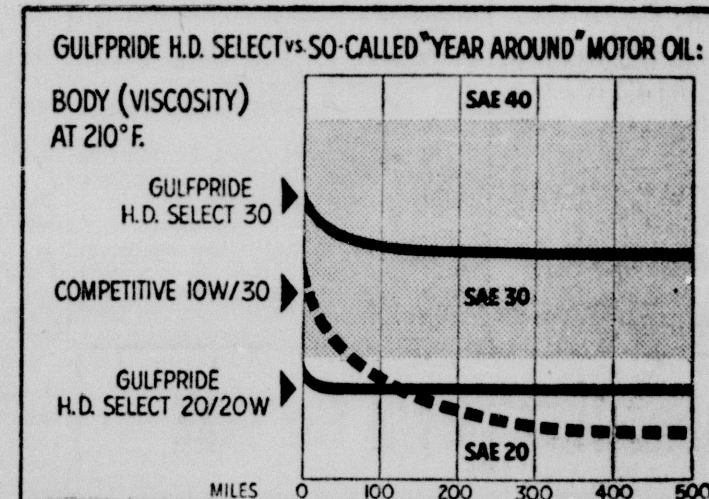

Now! For the ultimate in working octane performance and engine protection, always use Gulf's super-refined gas-oil team...

New Gulf No-Nox Gasoline
New Gulfpride H.D. Select Motor Oil

“Coked” valve A is from engine using a so-called “all-season,” multi-grade oil. This coke-like carbon deposit is a common cause of sluggish performance and ultimate valve failure. Clean valve B is from engine using new Gulfpride H.D. Select.

See how Gulfpride H.D. Select holds its “body” (viscosity). This new oil contains no artificial thickeners that break down under engine heat and pressure. But note how quickly a typical multi-viscosity 10W/30 oil starts to lose its body.

MEN WHO MAKE OUR LAWS: Chicago Tribune Praises 51st District's Powell and Jones

Points Out Top Legislators
Speak FOR People and LIKE Them

A few days ago Legislative correspondents—newspaper men who cover activities of the Illinois Legislature, announced their biennial choices for top legislators.

To the credit of the existing 51st Senatorial district, two of its legislators were in the four top men chosen—Representative Paul Powell, Democrat of Vienna, and Senator Glen O. Jones, Republican, of Raleigh and Harrisburg. Powell had been a previous choice as outstanding member of the House of Representatives, and Jones was named the top "freshman" Senator.

Outstanding "freshman" in the House was Rep. William H. Robinson, Chicago Republican, and Senator George E. Drach, Springfield Republican was named outstanding Senator.

Last Sunday's Chicago Tribune editorially commented on the selections, a portion of which is reprinted herewith:

"In considering any member of the Illinois legislature, it is well to remember that he has to be at least as bright as a majority of his constituents or he would not be there. This is a representative assembly in a double sense.

Most of the members do more than speak for their people back home. They also think and speak like them.

And the diversity of character and habit that this involves goes far to explain the success of the legislature in dealing with the state's problems. Frequently it's pretty good. When it gets fouled up, as it has with unusual frequency during the present session, it can be awful. But good or bad, it generally speaks with astonishing accuracy for the people of Illinois.

In so heterogeneous a group, able leadership makes the difference between success and failure. It is made more important by the fact that legislative membership is so often only a way station in a successful political career. Some few members, by their choice or accident, become veterans. But many move on to state office or Congress, to the bench, or to county and municipal office in Chicago, just when their continued presence in the legislature would be most useful. New talent is just as necessary in Springfield as it is to a good ball club. When legislative newspaper correspondents conduct their biennial poll on the most valuable member of each legislative house, they also designate the two best freshmen.

Rep. Paul Powell, Democrat from Johnson county near the southern tip of Illinois, was voted the outstanding house member for the second time.

Powell is just as much a leader without title as he was when speaker of the house at the 1949 session. Certainly he is as much a leader as when he was elected spokesman for Democratic minorities in four general sessions.

This year he has no title, by order of Cook county party brass hats. And still some go so far as to say he is "leader of both sides of the house."

Powell can shout, but this has little to do with the fact that he is the best orator in the legislature. Whether he is loud or quiet, the members listen closely. He takes the floor often.

On offense, or defense, Powell is powerful. When his humor plays on points, it comes naturally. When his grammar or pronunciation fall short of perfection, Powell loses nothing, because he makes no pretense. If he gestures, it is because he feels that way, not because he has been taught. His speeches rarely misfire, because they are loaded with "angles," "reasons," that other members can use back home. He simplifies the complex, at little expense to accuracy.

Powell is a politician in an area where politics is a live topic with nearly everyone 365 days a year.

High school was his top mark in education until he used the world—and particularly the legislature these 22 years—for a textbook. No lawyer, he goes to the heart of laws.

Glen O. Jones, (R., Raleigh), freshman winner in the senate, at 44 is the youngest in the foursome.

He is politically smart, has served two terms as state attorney of Saline county (in Powell's district). He served five years in the World War II and was a lieutenant colonel at 33.

Jones won a University of Missouri law degree and was secretary for nearly four years to former Justice Charles H. Thompson of the Illinois Supreme court. He is the son of a farmer with a plain name—John Jones—and now runs the old place.

Jones is a bit boyish in appearance but his behavior is mature. He has what is called promise. He made his mark as a member of the special committee that drew the first maps for downstate senate districts in 54 years. That put him into brass tacks contact with old timers who had a job to be done.

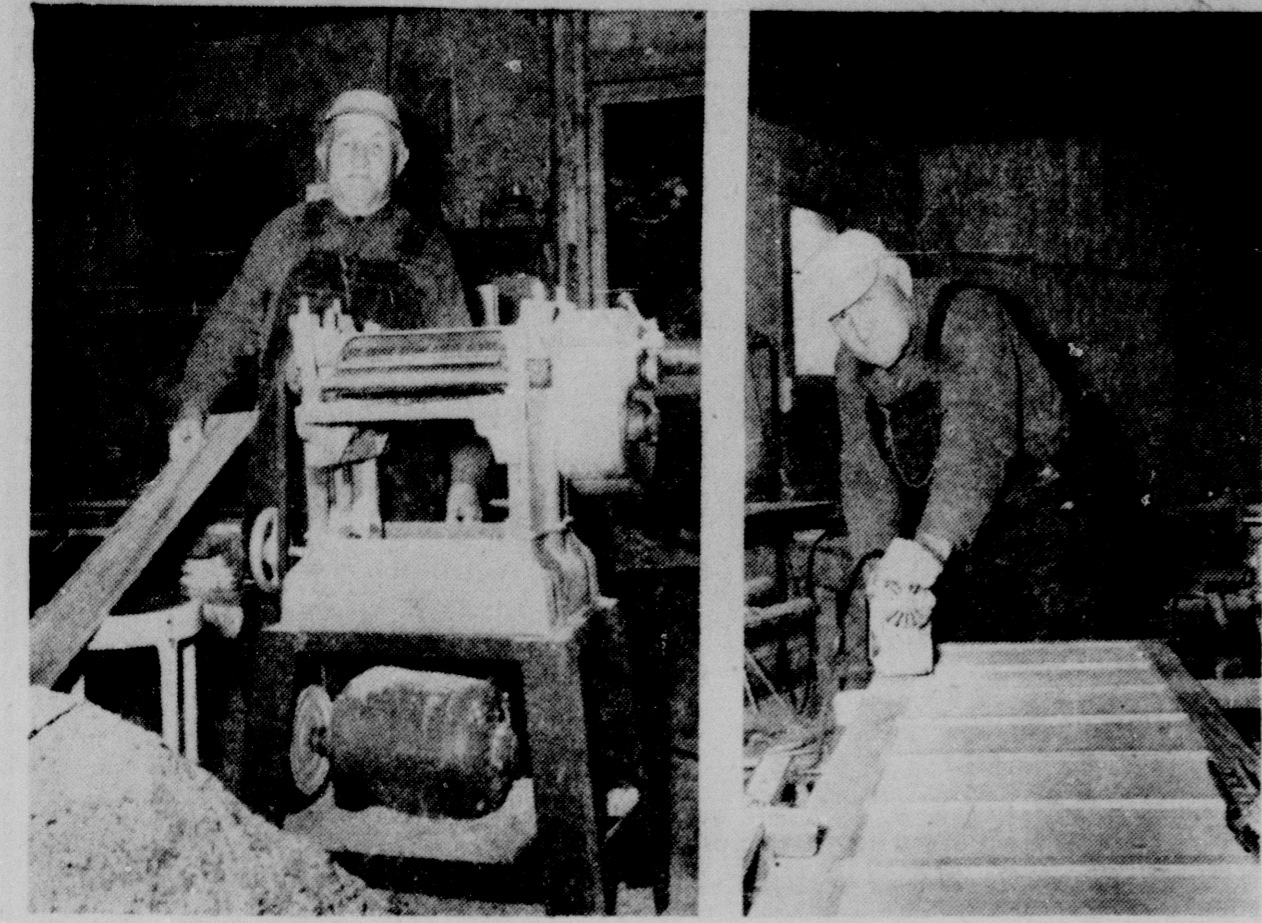

At the showdown, the southern Illinois portion of the map—involving the problems of three dimensional chess—got Jones high marks in senate esteem.

The press approval was on a more general basis, but to the point. Here might be another "country boy" who achieves results and manages to live with people.

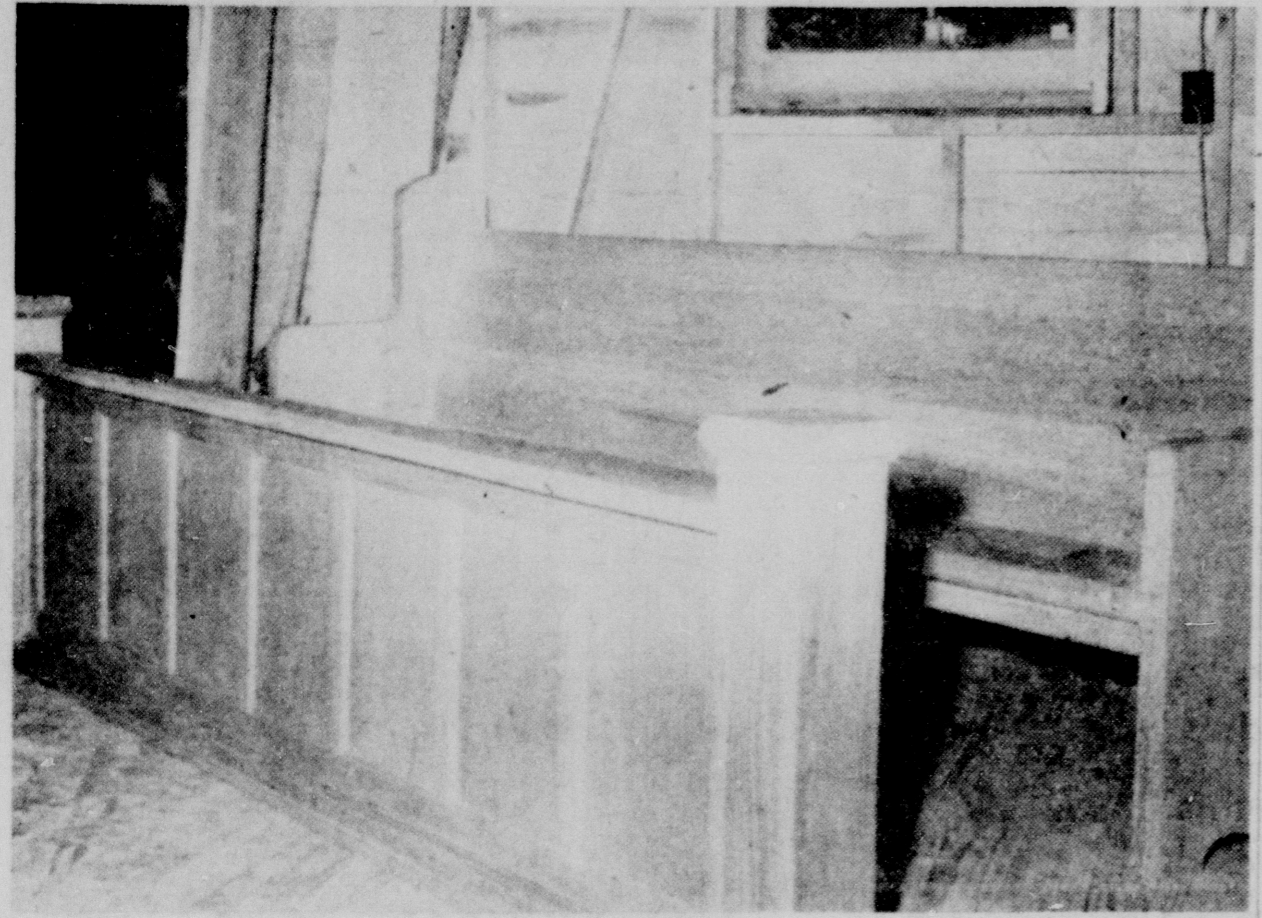

Modern Planet

First planet to be discovered in modern times was Uranus, discovered in 1781 by William Herschel, who named it The Georgian, in honor of King George III. This designation was changed to Uranus in 1850.

The average human heart weighs ten ounces.

JOHN SAUL, 77-YEAR-OLD WOODWORKER, is kept busy these days making furniture for churches in the area. Mr. Saul, who lives three miles south and east of Thompsonville, currently is making pews and an altar rail for the Methodist church at Dale. He has been active as a carpenter and woodworker since he was 12 years old, but first entered the church furniture field two years ago, at the age of 75. In the top photo is Mr. Saul in his shop, at left preparing to run a piece of red oak through the thickness planer and right he is sanding an altar railing. In lower photo can be seen an altar railing and church pew, just completed. All furniture is made of red oak. (Daily Register Staff Photos)

Time to Retire? Not Yet Says Thompsonville Woodworker at 77; Finds New Enjoyment at Task

At seventy-five years of age most people are either retired or making plans for retirement, but John Saul, woodworker in the Thompsonville community, entered a new phase of his profession at the age of seventy-five.

Now, two years later, when asked if he wasn't about ready to retire, Mr. Saul came back with the question, "Why should I retire? The Lord has given me good health and the ability to create worthwhile things for my fellow men." He then added, "I don't use glasses, either for reading or in my work, eat three good meals a day and sleep like a baby at night."

And he certainly was the picture of good health. Moving about with a steady step, enjoying perfect hearing, a good conversationalist, Mr. Saul looks as though he will continue at his woodworking profession for many more years. And he has strong, capable hands to handle the tools of his profession.

For the past two years Mr. Saul has made only church furniture—pews, pulpits, altar rails and Communion tables.

He made his first church furniture, with the exception of two or three pieces, about a half century ago, two years ago for the Pankeyville Baptist church.

"I got into making church furniture more or less by accident. Rev. Bill Hoyt of the Pankeyville Baptist church came to my shop and asked if I could make the church some pews and a pulpit. I don't know where he had heard of me, but I made what he wanted and he apparently was well pleased with the work," Mr. Saul recalled recently.

Since that time his ability has become well known and he now has furniture in thirteen churches. Most of his work has been for places of worship in this area, but he has furnished a church in Evansville, Ind., and also made pews for a church in Louisville, Ill.

At present Mr. Saul is making twenty pews and an altar rail for the Methodist church at Dale. Other churches in this area with Saul-made furniture include Stonefort, Mt. Pleasant, Carrier Mills Social Brethren, McLeansboro Methodist, Social Brethren and Missionary Baptist at Parrish, near Thompsonville. He has orders from churches in Herrin, Carbondale and Eddyville.

Everything is made of Red Oak, guaranteed kiln dried. He does not varnish the furniture, but does furnish the varnish. "The furniture must be hauled from my shop and there is the chance it will be scratched, so I don't varnish it," Mr. Saul explained.

Mr. Saul, whose shop is next to his rural home located about three miles south and east of Thompsonville, started in the woodworking profession at 12 years of age and four years later built a house for his brother in Billings, Mo.

Shortly after the house was completed, Mr. Saul states, he had a chance to work with a man he considers the best he ever knew with a square. "I worked with him for a year for nothing, just to learn how to use the square. Then I went to work for myself again and could demand big money, '89 cents per day," Mr. Saul stated.

Although he has always maintained his legal residence in the Thompsonville area, Mr. Saul lived in Dayton, Ohio, several years where he built many houses and 80 or more cabinets. He also made a trip to Florida during the middle 1920s during the great building boom, but got there as the boom was about to "bust," so didn't stay long.

Mr. Saul has a well equipped woodworking shop, including electric saws, jig saws, thickness planer, wood clamps and etc. Although the shop only recently has been used for making church furnishings, Mr. Saul states there is a pulpit in Pleasant Hill church, two miles northeast of Thompsonville, that he made 51 years ago.

He had six sons and a daughter but two sons and his first wife are dead. One of the four living sons followed in his father's footsteps as a cabinet maker, but of the other three he said, "Gosh, they couldn't drive a nail in the ground."

Mr. Saul has remarried and he and Mrs. Saul live in a comfortable, all modern home about three miles south and east of Thompsonville, which was constructed by Mr. Saul, including the plumbing and heating.

Mrs. Saul keeps busy with her house and is exceptionally proud of a fine garden, which she tends. "This is her project," Mr. Saul said as he pointed out the various things in the garden.

Odd Story Makes Odd Round Trip

DUNCANNON, Pa. UP—A lost wallet, 405 bales of hay and a man's suit were involved in this "it's a small world" example.

The well-laden wallet belonged to Glenn Smith, of nearby Ickesburg, who lost it while baling hay last summer. He had to open 405 bales before he recovered the wallet and money.

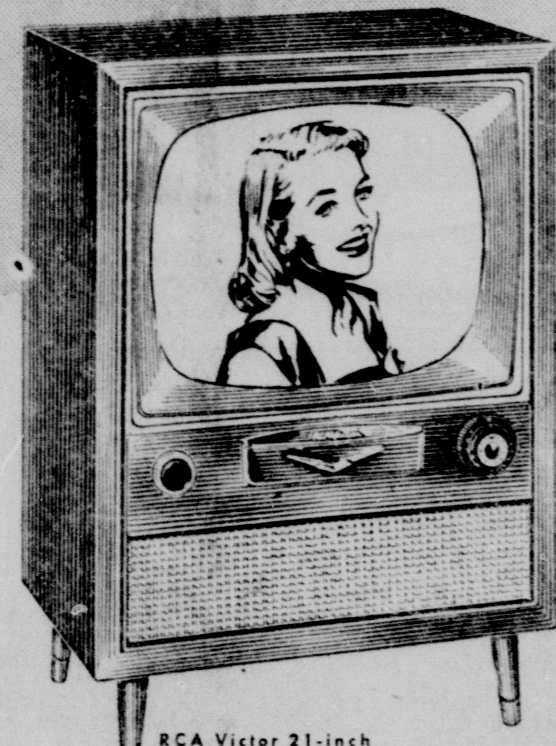

The suit belonged to Glenn Fisher, of Duncannon, who had donated it to a clothing fund for shipment to West Germany. He had forgotten to remove a note containing his name and address from a pocket.

Recently Fisher was surprised to receive a gift package from the German recipient of his suit.

While taking the German newspaper wrapping from the gift, Fisher noticed the word "Pennsylvania" mixed with the German phrases in one of the news stories. Curious, he had the entire story translated. The translation read:

"Fifteen days ago, farmer Glenn Smith of Pennsylvania, while baling hay, lost his wallet containing $400. Methodically he searched through every bale of hay. In the 405th bale he found it."

Holy Land Tour

By Dr. Archie E. Brown

Friday, June 24, 6:00 a. m., my wife, Louise and I left Vandalia, Ill., for St. Louis, Mo. This was to be the beginning of a journey which would take me on a trip to Greece, Egypt, Holy Land, France, Switzerland, Italy, England and Scotland.

Perhaps I should go back to the night before my departure. Although I have known for months that the departure date was to be June 24, not one thing was packed until 8:30 p. m., June 23. In about one hour my suitcase was packed for the month's journey.

We met the Rev. Paul Carleton, Oklahoma City, Okla., in St. Louis at 7:45 a. m. Our train was not to leave Union Station until 1:25 p. m.; therefore, Louis, Paul and I went downtown in St. Louis. We did some shopping and ate lunch. About 1:00 p. m. Paul and I bid farewell to my wife and boarded our train. We pulled out of St. Louis at 1:25 p. m. on the dot.

Our train stopped in Salem, Ill., where Dr. James M. Baldwin came aboard. Several people from his church came along with his family to see him off. Standing on the platform before the cars, I was able to snap a picture of the crowd in Salem waving good-bye. Paul, Jim and I settled down for a long train ride to New York City. We had roomette accommodations; so that we could rest that night.

Did we rest? Not much. I have travelled a great deal over the world, but never have I had such a rough ride. All night long the motion of the train rolled me from one side of the bed to the other. Paul became motion-sick and had to take a pill for motion-sickness. (He brought these along for the plane ride from New York to Athens, Greece. They came in handy for the train ride.) Jim finally gave up and got out of bed and went to the lounge car about 5:00 a. m. I rolled back and forth until about 7:00 a. m. and gave it up. When Paul and I found Jim in the lounge car, we also found several other people who were having the same troubles.

Stop at Washington, D. C. About 10:00 a. m. our train pulled into Washington, D. C. None of us had ever been there, so we got off the train and walked through the station. We had only about 20 minutes there; so we could not get too far from the station. We saw the dome of the United States Capitol building in the distance. We hope to see more of Washington on the way home.

We arrived in Jersey City at 2:40 p. m. There we boarded a bus which was to take us to the Governor Clinton hotel in New York City. The bus drove onto a large ferry boat which carried us across the Hudson River.

The Governor Clinton hotel is near the center of New York City and across from the large Pennsylvania Railroad station. We ate our evening meal in this station and went directly to our room. Our room was provided with TV, and after watching it for a while we retired for the night.

Sunday morning we attended worship services in the Riverside Baptist church. This church is directly across from Grant's Tomb and was largely built and paid for by John D. Rockefeller Sr. It is the largest and most ornate Baptist church in the world. It boasts of having the largest set of carillon bells in the world. We climbed all the way to the top of the church steeple and looked at these bells. It is 21 floors above the ground. Dr. Robert J. McCracken is the pastor of the Riverside church. One of his associate pastors, Dr. Joseph L. Chamberlain, preached. His subject was "Faith Out of Focus."

Guided Tour of New York

Sunday afternoon we took a guided tour of downtown New York. We went down the Bowery where we saw the jumping off place of humanity. Our guide said: "Ladies and gentlemen, regardless of what you think of the liquor question, you are about to see what it can finally lead to." We saw! The streets were filled with men who have lost all hope in this life. They drink anything they can get their hands on and try their best to stay "passed out" at all times. The side walks are lined with wrecks of humanity lying in every position. We saw a bar-tender toss one pour drunken old man out onto the sidewalk "to sleep it off." He was bleeding at the mouth where someone evidently had hit him just before our approach.

We walked through Chinatown. The little, narrow streets were literally swarming with people. We were permitted to go inside one of the Chinese temples. It is the Hip Sing Temple. Prior to 1910 it was the meeting place of the Hip Sing Tong. Those were the days of the Tong wars.

We were told that only eight old Chinese people remain in Chinatown who are not now Christian. Instead of the Tong groups, they now are called the Hip Sing Business Men's association. They are known as the most law-abiding group in New York City. They never have one of their people on relief of any kind. They take care of their own people.

Strike Drum in Temple

The odor of incense was strong as we sat in the Hip Sing Temple. The room was quite dark. We were seated before a large statue of the god, Buddah. We were told how the Chinese worshipped. A demonstration of the burning of paper, on which prayers were written, was given. The sounding of the gong was supposed to bring the spirit of Buddah into the idol before us. As we left the temple each of us was permitted to strike a drum and make a wish. We would strike it once for health, twice for wealth, three times for a happy marriage. I struck it twice. No need to wish for something I already have.

We went through the Noonan Mission on the Bowery. Here a religious group provides food and shelter for these poor creatures who are on their last leg because of the liquor habit. We sat in the mission where services have been held every night at 8:00 p. m. for sixty-three years. The average age of the men coming into the mission is sixty.

Sunday night we went down into Times Square and listened to some street preaching. On several corners men were preaching. One young man brought into his message the Peron and Catholic trouble in Argentina, South America. He had some unkind words to say about the Catholics and immediately he was about to be mobbed. He was saved only by the police, who put him into a police car for his own protection. The mob in the street cheered the officer because he arrested the young man.

Plenty of Disturbance

On another corner a young man was preaching. He began speaking of the Holy Trinity, that is, God, being three persons in one God-head. Some unbelievers in his audience began firing questions at him which he could not answer to their satisfaction. Before long three of them were arguing with each other on this subject. They were surrounded by a large group of on-lookers.

Before this heated argument ended we moved on to the next corner where three different men were preaching at the same time. Each one had a large group around him. They came nearer to preaching the true gospel than any of the others we had heard. On the outskirts of this throng were some young ruffians who were making fun of the preaching. There was also a newspaper backer who did his share of disturbing. No wonder! He could sell no papers. Everyone was listening to the preachers.

I could not help but breathe a silent prayer of thanks for my church family back home was worshipping God in "Spirit and in truth" at that very moment.

Briefing Session

Monday morning, June 27, 1955. We have been to our "briefing session" here in the hotel. During this eight o'clock session we received our final instructions before leaving for Athens, Greece. Our group of 47 people on the Taylor-Moore Tour has been divided into two groups. One group is leaving New York at 11:00 a. m. Jim, Paul and I are to leave New York by T. W. A. plane at 2:00 p. m. Eastern Daylight Time. It will be twelve o'clock noon back home.

As we prepare to leave for Athens, Greece, my mind is dwelling on family and friends back home. I thank God for them and for every blessing He has so richly bestowed upon me. My prayer is that I may prove myself worthy and well qualified when I return to my people. May this journey, with all its new adventures, make me a better Christian, a better prepared preacher and servant of His.

Stratton Urges Motorists to Heed Safety Warning

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. — Governor William G. Stratton today called on holiday motorists to heed the warning "Slow Down and Live."

"With thousands of motorists taking to the highways over the long Fourth of July weekend, the need for careful driving is evident," Governor Stratton said. "It has been borne out through comprehensive study that driving at excessive speeds in congested traffic is one of the major factors contributing to automobile accidents," he declared.

Governor Stratton pointed out that the cooperation of motorists in the "Slow Down — and Live" program over the Memorial Day weekend resulted in slashing the number of traffic fatalities in Illinois almost in half.

"This record can be duplicated or even surpassed over the Fourth if everyone who drives a car or crosses a street will join in the fight to eliminate traffic accidents," he said.

"Slow Down — and Live," a nation-wide safety project, has been incorporated as a part of Governor Stratton's over-all program of traffic safety education, which began with the program initiated two years ago for football traffic in the Champaign-Urbana area during home football games at the University of Illinois.

Governor Stratton pointed to the success of the football traffic safety campaign — no fatal accidents over a two year period in a 37-county area—as positive proof that death on the highway can be prevented if drivers lend their wholehearted support.

"If you plan to drive anywhere over this Independence Day weekend, remember to 'Slow Down — and Live,'" Governor Stratton urged.

There are more than 3,322,000 miles of roads in the highway system of the United States.

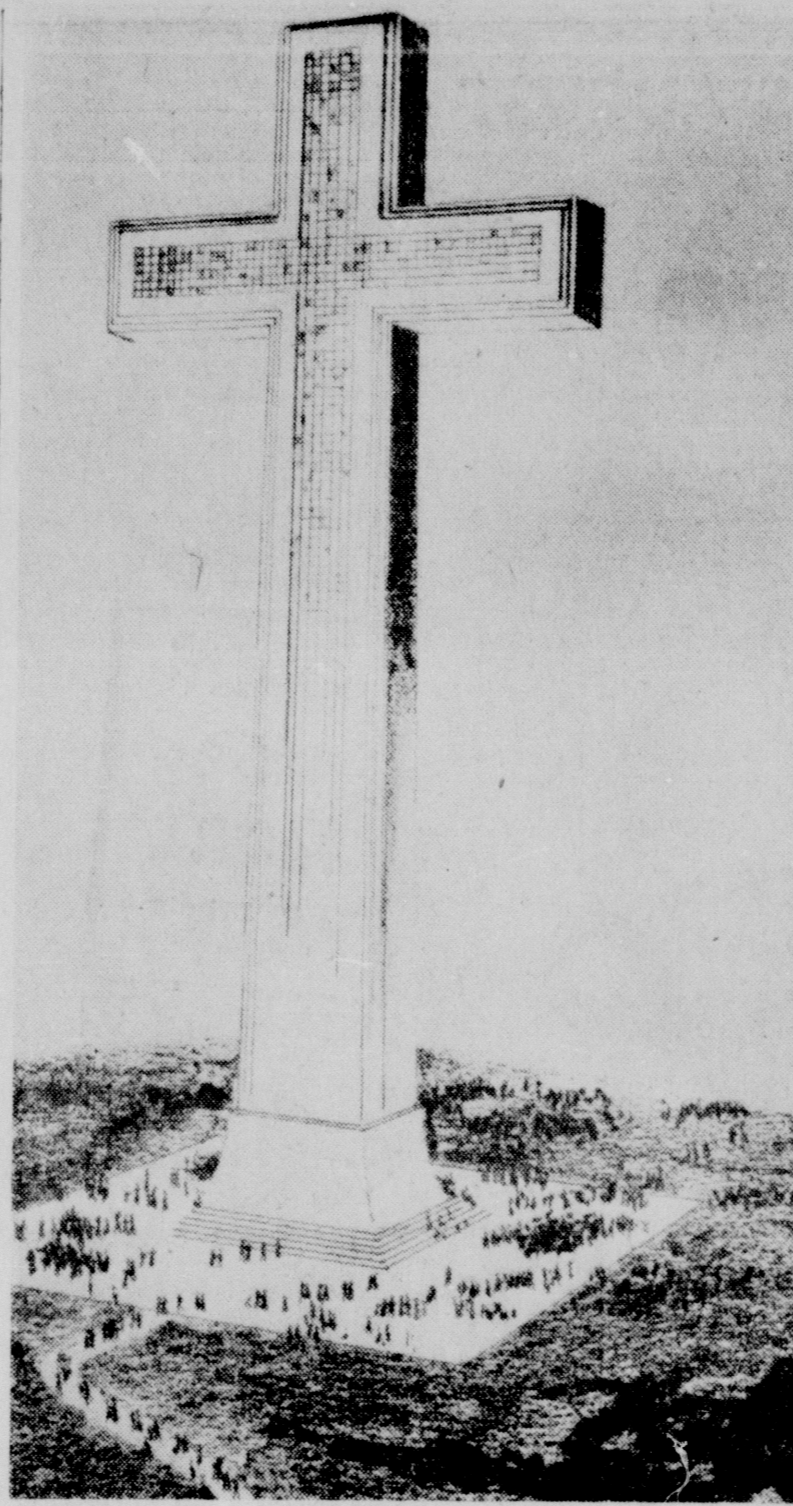

College Grads Often Shift Interests

ANN ARBOR, Mich. — (AP) — Outside of professional school graduates, only 38 per cent of college graduates go to work in the fields they majored in.

A recent study at the University of Michigan showed that 96 per cent of medical and dental students went on to a professional career in their fields, but only graduates in the earth sciences also tended to follow up their studies with related careers.

The Commission on Human Resources and Advanced Training, which conducted the study, said this tendency of graduates to work outside of their major fields was a good one. They said it assures a steady supply of lawyers who also know science, scientists who know economics, and economists who know law.

The study also showed that 50 per cent of female college graduates soon leave their jobs for marriage. The study said those who do not usually end up working at sub-professional levels or as teachers.

DESIGN FOR PROPOSED CROSS on Bald Knob mountain in southern Illinois has received final approval by the Bald Knob Christian Foundation and the General Federation of Women's clubs, co-sponsors of the project. It is to be along "The Old Rugged Cross" lines. The structure, to be built by free will offerings, will be 500 feet high, of steel and porcelain and stand in a scenic two-acre garden. It will be landscaped with cedars from the Forests of Lebanon and stones from the paths where Jesus actually walked.

Supreme Court Justice Still Has Eye on White House; 1960 Seen Year to Make Play

By LYLE C. WILSON
United Press Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON — The way the political chips are falling, it would have to be in 1960 that Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas would make his play for the Democratic presidential nomination.

The idea that Douglas has his eye on the White House persists in Washington. The justice does nothing to counteract it, either. On the contrary, Douglas refuses to abide in the ivory tower usually reserved for members of the high court.

He sounds off on political questions from time to time and, unlike his colleague, Associate Justice Felix Frankfurter, Douglas performs in public. The power-behind-the-throne role so often attributed to Frankfurter apparently has no appeal for Douglas.

Douglas' latest was a statement in Tokyo that Red China should have diplomatic recognition and that Nationalist China should be booted off the United Nations Security Council to make way for some other Asiatic nation.

That startling proposal is substantially a replay of what Douglas has said before, the first time in 1951 when he so shocked some members of Congress that there were murmurs in the House that the justice should be impeached.

Threats of impeachment don't surprise Douglas much, either. A House Judiciary subcommittee actually was named in 1953 to study an impeachment resolution drawn against Douglas after he had granted a last minute stay to Julius and Ethel Rosenberg, the Communist atom spies.

Douglas is far and away Washington's least conformist big time official. He recently was divorced to marry a second beautiful woman. In his 16 years on the bench, Douglas has made speeches as the spirit moved him before groups and on subjects usually considered out of bounds for a member of the Supreme Court.

His audiences have ranged from CIO national conventions to the student body of Iran's University of Teheran.

Moreover, Douglas climbs mountains, crosses deserts, visits other far places and writes books. His books are not on points of law but upon the social and political aspects of the peoples and areas he visits.

FDR named Douglas to the high court in 1939 and the former president would be pleased with his man's record. He is a New Dealer with a solid reputation among leaders of organized labor and left-of-center elements which made the New Deal tick. He would be hard for the conservative South to swallow as a presidential nominee, but, then, so was Adlai Stevenson.

Might Have Been President
Douglas might have been president long since, but for a fast thinking Missourian. To the 1944 Democratic national convention FDR wrote a famous letter designed to help prevent renomination of Henry A. Wallace as vice president. The letter was addressed and delivered to Democratic national committee Chairman Robert E. Hannegan, of St. Louis. It named two individuals FDR would consider satisfactory as running mates.

Hannegan passed the word that the President wanted Harry S. Truman if he could be nominated. If not, FDR would take Douglas. When the letter finally was published Douglas appeared to have been the actual first choice. He was named first and Mr. Truman second on FDR's brief list.

Douglas' physical and mental exertions keep him before the public in prose and pictures. He's a tall, rangy type given to medium size Western hats, his face crisscrossed with wrinkly lines. Born in Maine in 1898, Douglas grew up in the state of Washington. Western informality still marks him. He answers up easily to his nickname, Bill.

No Longer Court Baby
It comes as a shock to old timers to realize that Douglas no longer is the court baby. He was only 41 when FDR put him up there. But Associate Justice Tom C. Clark is a year younger. Douglas will be 57 when the court reconvenes next autumn. There is no shortage of Democratic aspirants for the 1956 presidential nomination and it is hardly possible that a situation could develop that would turn the party toward Douglas.

Wedding Bells Just Part of Pop's Suffering

NEW YORK — Shed a tear for the father of the bride.

Not only is he the guy who foots the bills for all the satin-and-lace productions of the June wedding season. But he also is the person who suffers the worst case of jitters.

So report Mr. and Mrs. Harcourt Harris, who run a New York photographic studio specializing in candid coverage of weddings. After 10,000 weddings, they've ended up worrying more about the father of the bride than any other member of the family.

"I've never yet seen a father who isn't green as he goes down the aisle," said Mrs. Harris. "He always looks as if this is the last mile."

"Maybe he's just thinking of the bills later."

Mrs. Harris said brides seem the calmest of all on the big day; maybe because their big problem, catching a man, has been solved.

She would rate bridegrooms next to fathers in nervousness. One bridegroom in particular she never will forget.

Fainting Bridegroom
"I noticed he was pretty shaky beforehand," she said. "And he swayed a little as he walked to the altar. But the ceremony went off smoothly. The bridegroom made all the proper responses, slipped the ring on the bride's finger, kissed her—and fainted."

Mrs. Harris said such occasions fortunately are rare, that most weddings do go off smoothly, or at worst with such "minor" mishaps as a lost bridal gown.

Mrs. Harris, an attractive brunette, was herself a victim of forgetfulness when she was a bride. Her wedding was scheduled for the Waldorf-Astoria hotel, and when she was ready to dress, the bridal gown was nowhere to be found.

"Whoever was in charge of it, had forgotten to bring it over from the apartment," she said. "We sent a maid home to get the gown, and the cab broke down on the way. By the time my dress arrived, I was ready to go to the altar in slip and bridal veil."

Trade-in?

Mrs. Harris joined her husband in business during World War II. "Somebody had to run the shop while he was in the service," she said. "I came in to help . . . and here I am."

She and her husband say they've noticed many changes since the studio was opened 20 years ago.

"Mothers of the brides are prettier and younger-looking now,"

she said. "Some of them you'd mistake for the bride."

Couples are marrying at a younger age.

"But what worries me," said Mrs. Harris, "is the attitude some of them have. They approach marriage with the idea, 'Well, if this one doesn't work out, we can always get a divorce.'"

Matter of fact, the Harris studio has had several return customers.

Said Mrs. Harris:

"Not too long ago a divorcee called me, said she was getting married again, and asked how much of a trade-in we would allow on the pictures of her first wedding."

Starch the corners of men's handkerchiefs so they will look neater when tucked in a jacket pocket.

Hankins-Thompson Marriage Announced

Announcement has been made of the marriage of Miss Nelle Jean Hankins, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Hankins of Brushy and Mrs. E. Thompson Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Thompson, also of Brushy, Saturday at 7:30 p. m. at the home of Rev. Volla Sittig, who performed the double ring ceremony.

Mr. and Mrs. Bobby May were their attendants.

Mr. and Mrs. Thompson are both graduates of Galatia Community high school and Mr. Thompson is employed at Sutter's feed mill in Galatia.

They are at home at the Hankins farm home while the bride's parents are vacationing in Texas.

Mrs. Frank Riegel of Harrisburg was a Sunday guest of Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Riegel. The latter Mrs. Riegel, who has been bedfast at her home for a few weeks is slowly improving.

Mr. and Mrs. A. P. Gollhofer had as guests last week some cousins. They were Mrs. Elmer Hodgson of Chehalis, Wash., and her sister, Mrs. Anna Perry, Mt. Vernon, Ind. They all visited other relatives and the Chas. Lackey family and Elva Frailley, both of Cave-in-Rock. These relatives are cousins of the late Mrs. J. T. Gollhofer.

Aviator Takes Time Out to Help Motorist

BOWMAN, N. D. —When Mrs. Ole Septon stopped at her mailbox on Highway 85 near here, she noticed that her auto had a flat tire.

While she struggled with repairs other motorists sped past on the highway. But Alfred Miller was more thoughtful.

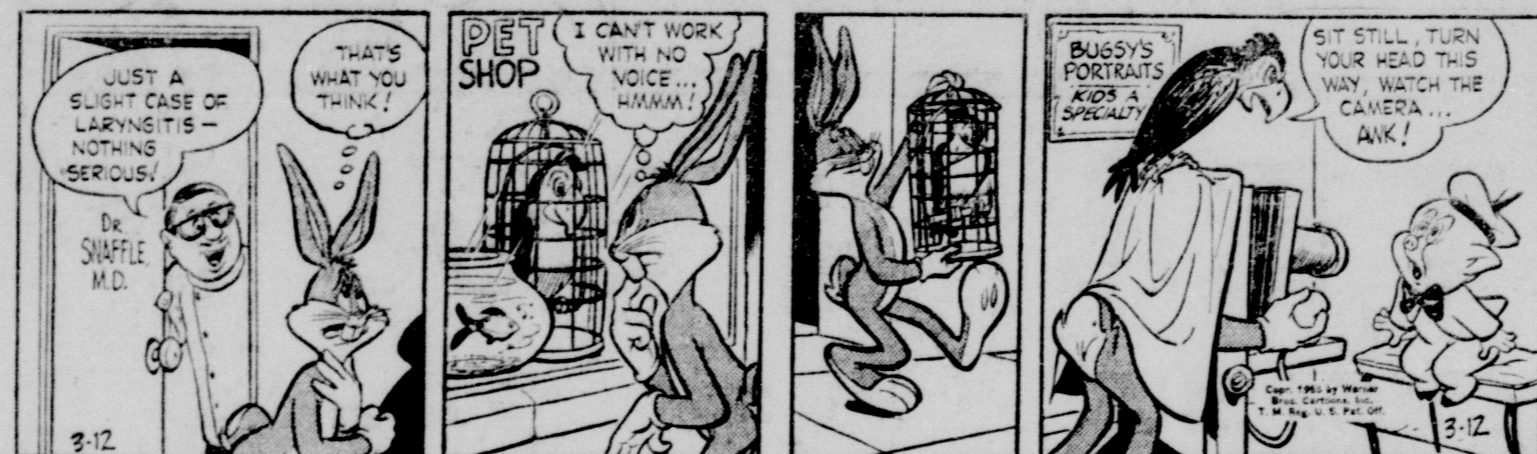

Miller, noticing the trouble, brought his airplane to a landing, helped her change the tire and was off into the blue again.

"It probably never happened to anyone before," Mrs. Septon said.

AF Offers New Advantages to Service Vets

All military service veterans, discharged since July 1951, will find that many occupational skills and technical knowledge acquired through such service are in great demand by the Air Force.

Starting July 1, the Air Force will put into operation a new policy which establishes a grade scale for enlistment and re-enlistment for all prior service personnel. The grade school will be based on technical skills and grade held at time of discharge.

A choice of area or base assignment is also part of the new policy which favors the discharged veterans. In some cases it carries provisions whereby veterans may elect re-enlistment for specific overseas theater.

The plan was devised to increase procurement of the needed prior service technicians and to insure assignment where skills could be used immediately.

Basically, grade determination will be dependent upon skill, date of separation and the need of the occupational field specialty.

The new plan will be implemented at all USAF recruiting stations throughout the United States. Each station will receive a periodic breakdown of skills categorized in order of needs. The breakdown will encompass all occupational skills used in the Air Force and will be listed in six classifications ranging from needed to surplus. Those in a surplus field can request re-enlistment and re-training in a needed skill.

Veterans having a needed occupational skill will benefit most by the new policy. For some skills the previous 90 days in grade enlistment time limitation has been extended considerably. In some instances where separation date is over 18 months but less than 24, the veteran can re-enlist and lose only one grade. Some possessing particular skills who have been separated over 42 months but less than 48 may re-enlist with the loss of only two grades if otherwise qualified.

In the past very few veterans received such consideration for in grade re-enlistment if time out of service exceeded 18 months.

Personnel procurement officials of the 3500th USAF recruiting wing believe that the new policy carries the answer to many of the re-enlistment problems.

By extending the 90 day in grade enlistment period in certain skills

City Life Getting Even More Crowded

LOS ANGELES —If you are a city dweller and have the feeling that things are getting more crowded all the time, you're absolutely right, according to a statistical-minded geographer at the University of California here.

Dr. Howard J. Nelson has reported that 99,000,000 persons out of the estimated 165,000,000 persons in the U. S. now live on only one per cent of the nation's land.

While the living conditions he outlined look uncomfortable, Nelson brought out that property owners should be happy with the crowded state of affairs since that one per cent of land is worth more than all the 99 per cent non-urban land left over.

Other points about American cities, Nelson reported, included the facts that about one-third of the 107 cities having a population of more than 100,000 were founded in pre-Revolutionary days, and that only two such cities—Tulsa, Okla., and Gary, Ind., were founded in the 20th century.

one of the prime deterrents to re-enlistment will be eliminated.

For full particulars contact your local USAF recruiting station. For this area the USAF recruiting station is located at 20 South Main street, Harrisburg, with M-Sgt. Peter F. Demedini, the recruiter, salesman in charge. Or you may phone Harrisburg 1061.

Conrad Will, a native of Pennsylvania, came to the Illinois country to look it over about 1814. On his first trip he bought cattle and drove them back to Pennsylvania.

Returning in 1816 he established a salt making industry at Brownsville. Dr. Will, for he was a physician, helped to frame the first constitution for the state of Illinois. He later served as representative and state senator from Jackson county. Will county in northern Illinois was named for him. (SIU).

Number of U. S. Autos Mounts Each Year

DETROIT —If the highways seem a little crowded to you nowadays, it isn't your imagination.

There are a lot more cars there every year than the year before.

According to George P. Hitchings, economic analysis department manager for Ford Motor company, the number of the cars on the highway in 1945 will have doubled in 1957.

The industry this year will turn out more cars in the first six months than it did in any 12 months of a pre-war year except in 1929 and 1941.

Look- 4 Doors and no center posts!

It's the new kind of hardtop—

The 4-Door Riviera!

You drop the side windows down on this airy beauty of a Buick with the solid steel roof—and it's as wide open as a Convertible, with no center posts to mar your view.

That's what makes it a hardtop.

But what makes it a very special kind of hardtop is the fact that it has four doors instead of two.

Cheers? Brother!—they're really rolling out for Buick's 4-Door Riviera!

Now, you see, you can have the tremendously popular styling of a true hardtop combined with the room, comfort and full convenience of a 4-door Sedan.

And it took a completely new kind of body design to come up with this marvel—a new kind of body built to wholly new structural principles.

So it looks like Buick's done it again—because the 4-Door Riviera is a sweeping sensation across the nation. It's rolling off the assembly lines in volume numbers to meet the demand—in the high-powered CENTURY Series, and in the bedrock-priced SPECIAL Series, illustrated here.

And each one is all Buick—with record-high V8 power, the level steadiness of all-coil-springing, the extra roominess of a full-size Buick

Sedan—and, most certainly, with the instantaneous getaway response and bettered gas mileage of Buick's spectacular new Variable Pitch Dynaflo.*

Come in for a look at the brand-new kind of hardtop—the 4-Door Riviera. You'll find it priced at the modest extra cost of a 4-door model over a 2-door model—and a buy too thrilling to pass up.

*Dynaflo Drive is standard on Roadmaster, optional at extra cost on other Series.
